Doctors at DeKalb General Hospital near Atlanta, Ga., are optimistic that the operation to restore 10-year-old Deborah Sheppard's severed arm will be successful. They say Deborah, whose right arm was cut off by an automatic washing machine, has some sensation in her right fingers.

GT10 BIG SUCCESS

Young, Collins Land Near Ship

... 7 RECORDS SET

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — Beaming proudly, astronauts John Young and Michael Collins, America's newest space walker, splashed to a pinpoint landing in tropical ocean waters Thursday, safe and sound after three dramatic days in space hunting satellites. They scored at least seven space firsts.

And they arrived home with thanks for everybody for helping make the flight the success it was.

"We enjoyed it, it's been a lot of fun," the bushy-haired Young said as he and Collins stepped onto the deck of the aircraft carrier Guadalcanal.

In Slight The space twins dropped from a cloudy sky inside their blackened, four-ton Gemini 10 spaceship as it dangled beneath a billowing orange and white parachute within sight of the ship.

Within minutes, they had climbed into a small raft dropped to them as swimmers scurried around attaching a flotation collar to keep the spacecraft from sinking.

They chose to ride the helicopter to the ship.

Estimates placed the Gemini 10 in the water just 7 1/2 miles from the ship—one of the more accurate returns of any American spacecraft, but not as close as record-holder Gemini 9 last month.

derful World." as the craft landed on the carrier deck. Sailors clapped and cheered. Navy Cmdr. Young, 35, was first onto the deck, and Air Force Maj. Collins, 35, followed as the band struck up the Navy and Air Force songs.

Gemini 10's blazing return began as the astronauts whipped over Canton Island in the western Pacific, near the end of their 43rd trip around the globe.

Four retro-rockets burst to life, slowing the ship's speed from the 17,460 mile-an-hour speed by 300 miles. This was enough to let earth's gravity grip the tiny vehicle, pulling it through the heat barrier of the earth's atmosphere.

Enthralled

"I really hate to come back," Young told a ground station as they began the final circuit around the world. This is really something up here."

Once aboard the ship, doctors immediately conducted an extensive medical examination. One of the first things was to swab the eyes and nasal cavities of both pilots, hoping to identify the substance that irritated the eyes during Collins' "space stand."

Gemini 10 rolled up a bundle of records valuable to the United States' future exploration of space, including hopes of rocketing men to the moon by 1969.

Linked to a powerful Agena rocket, Young and Collins flashed into a path around the globe 476 miles high at its peak, eclipsing the world altitude record of 307.5 miles held by Russia.

39-Hour Link-Up

For nearly 39 hours, Gemini 10 rode with its nose locked firmly to the Agena, marking the longest time man had ever stayed docked to another satellite. The Gemini 8 link-up lasted less than half an hour.

Three times, the pilots cranked the Agena's 16,000-pound thrust engine, making it sort of a fuel tanker in the heavens. No man had ever used power of a captured satellite to shoot along.

Gemini 10 searched and found a second Agena after a difficult hunt without help of a radar, producing the world's first dual rendezvous.

Collins became the first pilot to venture outside his spaceship twice. He spent nearly an hour standing on his seat with all but his legs stuck outside while taking scientific photographs. The next day he left the ship completely, using a space gun and a lifeline.

Touched Satellite The space walker became the first man to venture over to a captured satellite and touch it. He retrieved an experiment package that had collected vital information on micrometeorites.

County Would Pay 8.8% Of State Tax Under Plan

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County would pay 8.85% of the state's tax bill under an increased valuation of $1,507,890,380 recommended to the State Board of Equalization by State Tax Commissioner George Dworak.

Under the county's reported valuation of $613,922,850, its share would be 7.49%.

In comparison, Douglas County's share of the tax burden will drop from 20.66% to 17.49% under a decreased valuation of $2,089,815,111 recommended by the commissioner.

Dworak Thursday released valuations, reported and proposed, for the 93 counties, with the percentage share of governmental costs for each.

Total $11 Million

The state's total valuation, as recommended by the tax commissioner, is $11,953,888,943, representing an increase of $1,081,328,861 over the total reported by the counties.

Dworak's figures show that $964,264,523 of the increase would come from rural property while urban property would be hiked $117,064,338.

The tax commissioner has recommended revisions in the reported valuations of 65 of the 93 counties, the greater majority representing increases.

The commissioner's figures showed these shifts in the share of the burden of state government for the larger counties on proposed valuation revisions:

Dodge dropped from 2.28% to 2.19%; Hall decreased from 2.42% to 2.27%; Gage increased from 1.81% to 1.92%; Madison dropped slightly from 1.58% to 1.55% and Platte decreased from 1.78% to 1.62%.

In Lancaster County, the tax commissioner's proposed valuation increases are $42.1 million on rural property, or 44%, and $201.8 million on urban property, or 42%.

Both figures include restoration of the cutback of 15% on rural and 28% on urban ordered by the County Board from the 1965 assessment level set by the state.

$2.60 More Tax officials estimate a typical Lincoln homeowner with a $14,000 house will pay approximately $2.60 more in state taxes under the proposed 1966 assessment level as compared with tax payment in 1965.

However, the same homeowner would pay some $4 less next year to the state if the county's reported 1966 valuation is permitted to stand by the state board.

The county's reported 1966 valuation level, after cutbacks ordered by the county board, approaches its 1964 assessment level.

While the state's fixed levels of 4.3 mills for building and special funds will give the state more tax dollars under the statewide valuation boost, the general fund levy of 7.43 mills should decrease by approximately 10% in raising the tax dollars for appropriated funds.

Levies for the county, institutions, Salt Valley Watershed District and Lincoln School District could boost the tax bill on a $14,000 home by nearly $30 under the increased valuations if they are not reduced from the 1965 rate.

However, most government subdivisions last year reduced levies somewhat on an increased county valuation though they still took a larger tax dollar bite. The watershed district maintained its maximum .75-of-a-mill levy.

Lincoln city and airport authority taxes are not affected by state board action.

State Normal Board To Ask 30% Faculty Salary Increase

The State Normal Board agreed Thursday to seek a 30% salary increase for faculty members at the four state colleges for the 1967-68 biennium.

Dr. Freeman Decker, state colleges coordinator, said the salary schedule boost is needed to "catch up and keep up" with other comparable Midwestern colleges.

"Our low salaries made it impossible to recruit faculty members, particularly in the doctorate and sub-doctorate levels," he said.

Laughter Out "Our salary schedule is laughed out in recruiting efforts," he said in noting that the Nebraska colleges actually lost ground despite salary increases approved this biennium.

Dr. Floyd Miller, state education commissioner and board member, said, "The board need never apologize for doing what needs to be done. If anything, it could be criticized for not taking stronger action."

In Jeopardy Decker said the colleges' accreditation would be in serious jeopardy if the "overloading" were continued.

The board was advised that Nebraska was 48th or 49th among the states in dollars spent for higher education.

Also authorized by the board was 1967-69 budget recommendations for capital improvements needed to meet increasing student loads.

Plan For Future

"We've been building only for today, for current enrollments," Decker said. "It's expensive to keep adding on. Buildings should be planned for the future."

Dr. Milton J. Hassel, president of Kearney State College, said all the colleges are experiencing severe need for more classroom space.

He noted his college has 3,800 students and 42 classrooms today as compared with 42 classrooms and 1,625 students five years ago.

"Five classrooms were lost to space needed for faculty members," he said.

In the proposed budget increase for salaries, Decker said it would be programmed as "15% the first year and 15% the second year."

He said the salary averages for the four colleges are $6,760 for instructors and $9,352 for professors.

The board also directed the college presidents at Wayne, Chadron, Peru and Kearney to build budgets in line with this philosophy for board review and submission to the governor, and then the Legislature.

The colleges will also make their own enrollment projections.

Miss Mark Decker noted that current enrollment projections will miss the mark by 500 or more students.

Enrollment increases are resulting from more dormitory space, completed or being completed at the four colleges, and a higher retention rate of students for the full four-year program.

In another significant step, the board authorized the colleges to hold to a 600 student credit-hour production per faculty member in comparison to the current level of 635 hours.

In Jeopardy Decker said the colleges' accreditation would be in negotiations that was forestalled by heavy pressure from the White House and Labor Department.

Responding to the move of Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who said he would introduce a bill to end the strike, Siemiller said:

"That wouldn't be the answer unless they wanted a totally dictatorial economy."

Siemiller said if Congress wanted to prohibit unions from striking, "Let the government take away the profits from the airlines. They are a government-subsidized industry."

Lumbered Off The strike talks lumbered off the ground again Thursday after the machinists union dropped what the government called a pointless plan to vote on management's latest offer in the deadlocked negotiations.

Reynolds, in recessing the talks until Friday morning, said: "We're continuing to probe every possible avenue of settlement."

AIR STRIKE LEADER SEES NO QUICK END

Washington (AP) — President Roy Siemiller of the striking machinists union said Thursday he saw no hope for a quick settlement of the two-week airlines strike which is costing the economy millions of dollars and untold inconvenience to travelers.

Siemiller, who stepped personally into the deadlocked negotiations for the first time Thursday, said he could not argue with estimates that the strike against five major airlines could last as long as another two weeks.

"Ask management," Siemiller said, "they control the pocketbook."

The union chief said, "I have not been informed of any change in the carriers' position ... that would buy an agreement."

Back On Track

However, Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds said at least the talks were back on the substance of the dispute over wages, fringe benefits and other issues after a near-total collapse of

Study Committee Backs Power Line Construction

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislative Council's public power study committee Thursday night informally agreed to support construction by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation of a high-voltage electric transmission line from Fort Thompson, S.D., to Grand Island.

Members of the committee will meet in Lincoln Friday at 8 a.m. to draft a proposed resolution endorsing construction of the 345-kilovolt facility.

Construction of the line was urged earlier in the day by representatives of the Missouri Basin Systems Group meeting in Sioux Falls, S.D.

Eye Blackouts

Eight senators met Thursday night with members of the Nebraska Power Review Board to discuss last week's power blackouts in Nebraska, with the proposed interconnection to the north emerging as a central topic.

The line could carry some 400,000 kilowatts of power into Nebraska.

Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City, legislative committee chairman, said the line could help meet "the need for more power in Nebraska."

Possibility

The committee's resolution may touch on the possibility of obtaining an emergency appropriation from this session of Congress to construct the facility, Stryker said.

Power Board Chairman William Norton of Osceola said construction time has been estimated at 30 months.

"This is an emergency situation," Sen. Chet Paxton of Theftord declared. "We're having a real problem."

Opposed?

Only Sen. Dale Payne of Papillion indicated that he may not support the resolution, suggesting that the proposal needs to be studied more by the senators.

The proposed line would eventually extend beyond Grand Island to a point near Wichita, Kan. Cost of the Fort Thompson-Grand Island connection, including terminal substations, has been estimated at about $29 million.

Norton told the senators that Nebraska is rapidly approaching the necessity of choosing between state regulation of public power or the prospect of federal intervention in Nebraska's power industry.

Moving In

The federal government is "moving into position" to regulate Nebraska power, Norton warned, because power blackout problems affect ing the state also affect neighboring states in the Missouri Basin.

Norton said representatives of Consumers Public Power District, Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District, Nebraska rural electric districts and municipal utilities indicated at the Sioux Falls meeting that they support construction of a high-voltage tie to the north.

Nebraska, Norton said, will also need a new generation plant in the near future. Both Consumers and Platte have applied for authority to construct a large new unit.

Local Construction Still Recovering From Strike

By JIM STEVENSON
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln construction is beginning to catch up, but the effects of the almost two-month long strike this spring still show, a survey of local construction companies showed.

The seven-week long strike, which ended on May 20 after nine unions accepted employers' terms and returned to construction sites, held up work on nearly all commercial construction in the Lincoln area.

Some of the projects delayed included the new addition to Lincoln General Hospital, a hospital in Crete, Norden Laboratories, a U.S. Post Office sub-station, a fire station, sewage treatment improvements, several sites of construction at the University of Nebraska, and several public schools throughout the area.

Further Delay

Main causes for further delay beyond the duration of the strike itself were the difficulty of obtaining the same number of workers as before the strike and the fact that it takes some time to return to full strength once the synchronization of construction has been broken.

"The strike caused a lot of trouble getting back in full operation," said a spokesman for the Kington Construction Company, which is handling the construction of East High School, Norden Laboratories, and a Lincoln fire station.

"We've still got dislocated personnel and supplies even now, two months after it ended," he said.

Next Year

"It's difficult to say how long it'll take to recover," he said. "I'd say we'll be well into next year before we shake the problems posed by the strike."

"We're getting back to normal operation," said a spokesman for the George Cook Construction Company, in charge of the construction of the Ashland High School and Crete Hospital. "Those two months we'll probably never get back, but we're doing our best to pick up the time we can."

John H. Miller, vice-president of Olson Construction Company, was more pessimistic. "Things aren't back to normal yet," he said, "but it takes time to recover after that long a lay-off."

Olson Construction Company was handling the contracts for the Lincoln General Hospital addition and the University of Nebraska stadium and music building at the time of the strike.

Miller said that he doubted that the company could return to normal operation before Labor Day, pointing out that the delay on several projects might easily stretch beyond the duration of the strike.

"You can't really tell how long you're going to be delayed," M. W. Anderson, president of the M. W. Anderson Construction Company, said. "We're trying to make up time, but a two-month lay off isn't easy to recover from."

The M. W. Anderson Construction Company held the contracts for the University of Nebraska Dental College and Lincoln Manor when the strike occurred.

Though tempers flared between the employers and the unions during the seven weeks of the strike, company spokesmen concurred that relations at that score had returned to normal.

As a spokesman for the George Cook Construction Company said, "The strike's over, and we're back on the job. We forgot about the fight."

Negro Boy Shot Dead

New York (AP)—An 11-year-old Negro boy was shot to death Thursday night in an explosion of racial violence that had been simmering off and on in the East New York slum area of Brooklyn.

Police said the boy apparently was struck in the chest by a bullet fired by a sniper as hundreds of Negroes milled about the street corners of the area.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, who had been booed and jeered only hours earlier on a visit to the area, sped back to the scene of the shooting in the company of Police Commissioner Howard Leary.

Police rushed in about 350 extra policemen, many wearing helmets, were rushed into the area from other sections of the city to help maintain peace among the crowd, mostly teenagers who remained on street corners after the shooting.

There were some reports of brick and rock tossing and some store windows were reported smashed.

There was no reported looting, however.

The dead boy was identified as Eric Dean. He was taken in a police car to a hospital where physicians pronounced him dead of a bullet wound in the chest.

At first, police said the boy had merely fainted as they bundled him into the cruiser for the trip to the hospital.

This appeared for a time to subdue the tempers among the Negroes in the area. However, tensions rose again when it was reported that the youth had been shot to death.

Ethnic Change

The area, once a prominent Jewish neighborhood which gave way after World War II to Puerto Ricans, Negroes and Italian Americans, is considered a slum area.

Racial violence broke out in the area twice in the last week. In one incident a woman was shot and wounded. Several other persons were injured in earlier violence and some were arrested.

Before the shooting, hundreds of Negroes, many armed with rocks, sticks and bottles, roamed the area. They told police they carried the makeshift weapons to protect themselves from whites who they expected to attack them.

Some residents of the area blamed the violence on the mayor, complaining that he had visited only the Italian section of East New York on his early evening visit, ignoring the Negro and Puerto Rican sections.

Defense Of Insanity Mapped For Speck

Chicago (AP)—The public defender mapped an insanity defense Thursday for Richard Speck, accused killer of eight student nurses, and a dispute broke out over the defendant's physical condition.

Public Defender Gerald W. Getty, who has been appointed by the Circuit Court to defend Speck, said he will plead that the 24-year-old roving seaman is not guilty of murder by reason of insanity.

He added that he will enter a plea of innocent and demand a jury trial.

Getty's Opinion

Getty, who saw Speck for the first time Wednesday when he went to his room in the city jail hospital, told a news conference:

"In my opinion as a layman there is an outside chance we may lose him. When I visited him he appeared very weak."

"No medical staff at the house of correction have ever indicated that Richard Speck is gravely ill and not expected to live for the trial. This information is erroneous and without basis of authority."

Speck was carried into the Cook County Hospital emergency room early Sunday, bleeding from self-inflicted slashes on his arms. After a doctor identified him from tattoo markings as the man sought in the slayings, he was removed to the city jail hospital.

He complained of chest pains Tuesday and, after two electrocardiograms were taken, Dr. William N. Norcross, city jail hospital physician, said there was a chance Speck had suffered a heart attack.

"Currently there is no probability of his (Speck's) death," Dr. Norcross told newsmen when asked about Getty's statement.

The physician said he doubts if Speck is able to appear in court next week. A hearing has been continued to July 28.

Norcross said he advised Getty Thursday Speck should not be visited and that Getty said he would not see his client.

Judge Daniel Ryan of the Felony Division of Circuit Court, appointed two heart specialists Thursday to determine the defendant's physical condition.

They are Dr. William Bolkan, a University of Illinois Medical School professor and attending cardiologist at St. Joseph's Hospital, and Dr. Edmund Foley, professor emeritus at the University of Illinois Medical School and a certified specialist in heart disease at Columbus hospital.

The state's attorney's office declined to say when it will present evidence against Speck to the grand jury.

Masonic-Knights Of Columbus Distrust Ebbing

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

New York (AP)—"Pagans!" "Frauds!" In such caustic terms, members of Roman Catholic and Masonic fraternal orders have sometimes regarded each other in the past. But the distrust is disappearing.

"Those days are gone," says John W. McDevitt, supreme knight of the Catholic men's order, the Knights of Columbus. "We're encouraging closer rapport."

The change has meant not only a fading away of the mutual aspersions, but has also brought about joint discussions and prospects of cooperation.

"So Good, So Far"

Welcoming the new friendship relationship, Wendell K. Walker, Masonic grand secretary in New York state, said, "It's been so good so far, it seems likely to develop still further."

Across the country, Masonic lodges and councils of the Knights have met together in many communities at "brotherhood breakfasts" and similar affairs for the first time in history.

With growing frequency, officials of both groups have been guests at meetings of the other.

The Rev. John A. O'Brien, a Catholic theologian at Notre Dame University, has spoken at several Masonic gatherings lately in the Midwest, stressing greater Catholic esteem for Masons.

He predicts the time is rapidly approaching "when officials of the Catholic Church will re-examine the causes and circumstances of its ban against Catholics joining a Masonic lodge."

That ban was first imposed by Pope Clement XII in 1738, the beginning of a long succession of papal condemnations, edicts and censures imposing excommunication on Catholics joining or promoting Masonry.

Pope Pius IX, in the mid-19th century, characterized Masonry as insidious, fraudulent, perverse, "injurious both to religion and society." Other harsh charges also were hurled.

Because Masonry is non-sectarian, open to men of varying faiths, past Popes accused it of a false tolerance, creating religious indifference and undermining Catholicism.

Obligation

Masonry, which bars atheists and agnostics, obligates members to broad religious principles and, in the words of early constitutions, "To be good men and true—by whatever denomination or persuasion."

It regularly has denied opposing Catholicism. But edged feelings existed in both camps.

The Catholic magazine, America, comments: "Many a Knight will doubtless recall less fraternal days, when Masonry, particularly in the South, harbored a good deal of anti-Catholicism, and when Catholics rather commonly tarred all Masons with the same brush."

Brotherhood

The Masonic order includes about 4 million members in the United States, their lodges stressing rules of brotherliness, help to the needy and civic virtues.

The Knights of Columbus, including about 1.2 million members in this country, also carry on works of civic and social service.

McDevitt, of the Knights' headquarters in New Haven, Conn., said the beginning job of reconciliation between the fraternal orders is "to get rid of derogatory" impressions of each other.

"Neither side has had a monopoly on this," he said. But he added that the mood and manners have changed as a "dividend of the ecumenical spirit." He foresees

Fires, Shots Heard Again

Cleveland, Ohio (AP)—Flames and gunfire crackled again Thursday night in riot-damaged Negro slums and other areas in a spreading wave of malicious destruction. The fourth night of violence followed the early morning gunshot wounding of five persons at a fire.

"They've fired one unit and they're attempting to fire another," a policeman reported from one location.

Wounded when officers sent a hall of bullets into a car lunging toward them at the scene of a skating rink fire were Mrs. Diane Towns, 16, hit in the face and shoulder; Christopher Green, 4, shot in the head; Emmanuel Towns, 7 months, nicked on the neck, and Ernest Williams, 12, brother of Mrs. Towns shot in the right leg. Guard Capt. James A. Fletcher, 28, of Lake Milton, Ohio, was wounded in the left leg by a ricocheting bullet.

Uninjured was the car's driver Henry M. Towns, 22, husband of the young woman.

U.S. Will Be At Prisoner Parley, Large Or Small

Washington (AP)—The United States is informing the International Red Cross Committee that it will attend either a large or a small conference on applying the 1949 Geneva Conventions on prisoners of war, U.S. officials said Thursday.

At the same time, State Department legal specialists said that even if North Viet Nam's reservations to the Geneva Convention are legal, Hanoi still is bound under the Geneva rules to give American captives the special treatment accorded war prisoners.

President Johnson proclaimed Wednesday U.S. readiness "to sit down at a conference table" under International Red Cross sponsorship to discuss ways for "fuller and more complete application in Viet Nam" of the Geneva Conventions.

North Viet Nam has been threatening to try captured U.S. airmen as war criminals. Informants said that what kind of a conference might be convened under Red Cross sponsorship is up to the international committee headquartered at Geneva. Johnson's proposal was reported being conveyed to the committee through diplomatic channels.

U.S. officials said one possibility would be to have the seven powers with troops in Viet Nam partake in such a conference. This includes the United States, Australia, New Zealand, South Korea, the Philippines, and North and South Viet Nam.

Another possibility might be talks between just the United States and North Viet Nam, or a three-country meeting among the United States, South and North Viet Nam.

While such discussions presumably would be initiated at a technical level, to deal with the prisoners issue, U.S. strategists envision the possibility that the talks could be a wedge toward broader discussions of a possible Viet Nam peace settlement.

Hanoi has rejected all Washington attempts at peace talks so far.

From the past record, however, it seemed unlikely that North Viet Nam would agree to a conference on the prisoners of war question. And if Hanoi does not show an inclination to accept, U.S. officials doubt that the Red Cross Committee would want to call a conference.

Mrs. Gandhi 'Irritates' U.S. By Viet Nam Plea

New Delhi (AP)—The United States has conveyed to India its displeasure with a recent statement by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi on the Viet Nam war, it was learned Thursday.

Indian officials said that while this has created no serious problem for U.S.-India relations, U.S. diplomats here and in Washington expressed "irritation."

The statement in question was the July 16 communique Mrs. Gandhi signed in Moscow with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin after wide-ranging discussions on Viet Nam and other issues. U.S. officials, it was reliably reported, took exception to two portions of the communique:

—Mrs. Gandhi's agreement with the Soviet demand that American bombing of North Viet Nam "should be stopped immediately" without a specific call on Hanoi to stop its military actions in South Viet Nam and negotiate.

—Mrs. Gandhi's expression with Kosygin of concern at the "deterioration of the international situation and mounting war dangers which have occurred lately as a result of the aggressive actions of imperialist and other reactionary forces."

This language was considered by American diplomats to be Russian language aimed at blaming the United States alone for the Viet Nam war and they are reported to have expressed displeasure because Mrs. Gandhi put her signature to it.

There have been two high level U.S. diplomatic contacts with India since the communique was signed. Secretary of State Dean Rusk talked with Indian Charge d'Affaires S. N. Banerjee in Washington and American Ambassador Chester Bowles called on Foreign Secretary T. N. Kaul in New Delhi.

Living Cost's Six-Month Rise Biggest Since 1958

Washington (UPI)—The cost of living went up 0.3% in June, pushed hardest by higher prices for food and medical services and higher mortgage interest rates.

The rise capped the biggest six-month increase since 1958 and brought the Labor Department's consumer price index to 112.9% of the 1957-59 average, up 2.5% from a year ago.

The Labor Department reported that consumers in June paid $11.29 for the same package of goods and services that cost about $10 eight years ago.

Buying Power Dips

Take-home pay for the average factory worker with three dependents during June was unchanged at an average of $99.22. But higher living costs cut 24 cents off his pay.

Food prices, which had fallen 0.4% in May, rebounded and rose 0.4% in June.

Doctor, dentist and health charges increased 0.6%.

A 2% increase in mortgage interest rates last month reflected a "continuing scarcity" of mortgage funds "and the upward climb of interest rates generally," the department said.

The price increase in June was three times as big as the rise in May of 0.1%. Prices held steady in January, rose 0.5% in February, 0.4% in March and 0.4% in April.

The over-all cost of living went up 1.7% during the first half of the 1966, the biggest six-month increase in eight years.

The main June food price increases were for fresh fruit, pork, dairy products and bread. Compared to a year ago, food prices in June were 3.5% higher.

An exception, the department said, was fresh vegetables, which were 16% cheaper than in June 1965.

Arthur Ross, commissioner of labor statistics, told newsmen that the June cost-of-living increases were about the same as average June increases during the past 15 years. But he declined to predict what prices would do in July, except to say that food prices normally climb in mid-summer.

As a result of June's higher prices, the department said, about 84,000 workers will receive cost-of-living wage increases.

The department said that during the past two years U.S. consumer prices have risen about 4%, compared to 8.5% in Britain, 14% in Japan, 6.5% in Italy and 6.5% in Germany.

Feed, Grain Roughage Shortage Faces State

... Even If Rains Come Soon, Say Experts

Even if general rains arrive soon, Nebraska farmers face a shortage of feed grains and roughage this year, according to James Greer, University of Nebraska Extension farm management specialist.

The critical problem the individual farmer faces in Nebraska's drought-stricken counties is how to adjust livestock numbers in the face of uncertainty about future prices, limited feed supplies at high prices, and the length of the drought, he said.

Even with timely rains, corn will be in short supply,

Negro Businessmen's Group Confers With Omaha Mayor

Omaha (AP)—A group of Omaha Negro businessmen met with the Ad Hoc Responsive Citizens Committee Thursday with Mayor A. J. Sorensen, his aide Louis B. Olsen, and Homer which cannot be solved when met with the full co-operation of all citizens, a stern sense of individual responsibility and some good old-fashioned pride in our community."

Earlier the mayor's recreation committee completed the public hearing phase of its work at a session attended by more than 80 persons.

Kermit Hansen, hearing chairman, said a summary of the three sessions this week will be submitted to an executive subcommittee which will begin drafting a report next Monday.

The committee heard a warning by Bob Tyson, a domestic Peace Corps worker who has lived this summer near the heart of the Near North Side, that "you have to show some result or the people I know will not keep even the little respect for city government they now have."

Others appearing before the committee asked for more recreation areas and job opportunities, adult education, improved housing conditions and speeding up of all anti-poverty efforts in Douglas County.

Plan To Drop Rockets Brings Kansas Protest

Norton, Kan. (AP)—An Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on a Rock Island plan to drop its remaining passenger service between Omaha and Colorado opened here Thursday.

Fifty persons attended and 13 testified, 12 of them opposed to the discontinuance and one in support. Delegations were present from Norton, Jennings, Phillipsburg, Oberlin and Dodge City, Kan. Florists, funeral directors and frequent passengers were among those protesting. The Oberlin and Norton Chambers of Commerce said there would be a crippling loss of mail service if the trains are discontinued.

They are the Rocky Mountain Rockets, designated as trains 7 and 8, which run from Chicago to Denver and Colorado Springs, through north central and northwest Kansas and southeast Nebraska.

$23 Million Tag Placed On Wheat South Panhandle

Sidney (AP)—A $23 million price tag has been placed on the wheat crop in the six counties which make up the southern half of the Nebraska Panhandle.

The estimate is based on an estimated crop of 14 million bushels in Cheyenne, Deuel, Kimball, Banner, Garden and Morrill Counties.

Surveys of the six counties indicated the per acre yield averaged about 31 bushels per acre.

he said. This is because, although 4½ more corn is expected to be produced in the state, about 18½ less is stored on the farm than at this time last year.

Grain sorghum acreage is down 16½ from last year, he pointed out.

Hay production is estimated at 20% below last year and the price may skyrocket this winter, Greer pointed out.

Salvaging Urged

Farmers in drought-stricken areas should consider salvaging all the low-quality roughage that they can, according to Paul Guyer, University of Nebraska Extension animal nutritionist.

This includes straw, corn stalks, milo stubble, and corn cobs, he said.

To these roughages can be added the necessary supplements to make a satisfactory feed for maintaining seed stock herds cheaper than any other way, he said.

Guyer has provided county Extension agents with information on harvesting, storing and using these low quality roughages.

Oil Tanks Hit Second Time By Lightning

Kimball (AP)—Lightning struck oil tanks in the Kimball area for the second time within a week Wednesday night, causing damage estimated at $5,000 to $5,500.

The strike occurred on land rented by Howard Lukassen, seven miles west and one mile north of Kimball. The tanks belong to the Bel Aire Oil and Gas Company of Denver.

Witnesses said there was an explosion and three 300-barrel tanks were destroyed. About 500 barrels of crude oil also went up in smoke.

The fire was visible from Kimball and firemen spent about two hours extinguishing it.

In a similar mishap Monday night, one tank exploded and two others burned. They were owned by the Reserve Gas and Oil Company.

The election is believed to be the first held under LB902 passed by the last Legislature. The law permits a vote when at least 25 voters in a district petition for it.

Iowa Kids' Desire To Salute Servicemen Via Stamp OKd

Washington (AP)—Thanks to a determined group of youngsters in Iowa, U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam soon will be saluted with a 5-cent postage stamp.

It all began when the pupils of North Junior High School in Sioux City decided there ought to be a stamp honoring servicemen in Viet Nam.

"These kids did a tremendous job," a Post Office Department spokesman said Thursday. "and the postmaster general has accepted the idea. They really waged one heck of a campaign."

He said they had billboards erected to plug the idea in Sioux City and in Washington. They solicited thousands of letters of support from other school pupils across the country and presented Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien with sacks of mail backing the idea when he visited Iowa recently.

Credit was given especially to groups in Omaha and Lincoln, Neb., for their support.

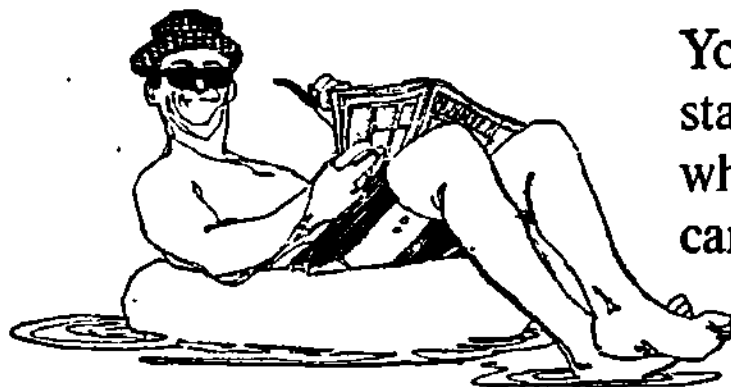

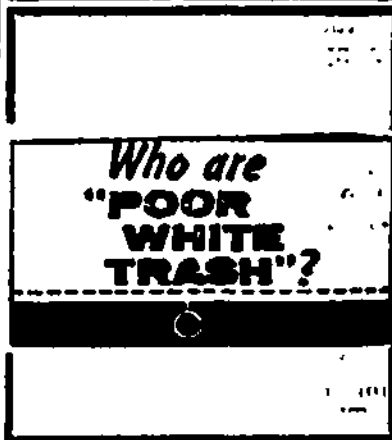

They also enlisted the help of their congressman, Rep. Stanley L. Griegg, D-Iowa, who suggested to O'Brien that he consolidate the idea with an earlier plan to issue a stamp on the 25th anniversary of U.S. savings bonds.

The design will be unveiled in the next few weeks, the spokesman said, and while the wording suggested by the children—"American Servicemen, We Appreciate You"—is a bit long for a postage stamp, it will bear a similar expression.

The stamp will be issued sometime this fall.

Memories Of A Patriot

By MARQUIS

(Note: William O. Dobler, The Star's editor, is on vacation. Today's column is by Marquis Childs, well known political writer and news analyst.)

WASHINGTON — A year has passed since Adlai Stevenson died while walking in Grosvenor Square in London. He had been through trial and tribulation in his post as ambassador to the United Nations. His influence on the foreign policy of the Johnson administration was negligible.

Yet millions in the United States and around the world felt his passing as a personal loss. And, if one may venture a guess, that sense of loss is still strong not only among his friends but among the unnumbered multitude that looked to him for something more than the exercise of power. The reason is not hard to find. His generosity of spirit, his magnanimity, his lack of malice, his humor, the free flow of ideas—all this came through in almost everything he wrote and spoke. Above all, a generosity of spirit is missing today and, while this made him vulnerable to petty snipers practicing a dubious power politics, it was the essential element of his greatness which even in the latter months of his life he never repudiated.

Much was written after his death about his dismay and disillusion at the course of American policy and the chores he was called on to perform at the U.N. He was in on the crash landings, as in the Bay of Pigs fiasco, but seldom on the take-offs.

This reporter was in South America at the time of his death and the memory of that call from the embassy giving the news is still sharp. I had spent several days with him in New York at the height of the Dominican crisis in May and he was deeply troubled by the assigned task of justifying the massive American intervention. As a thinking man, he knew well that far more was involved than either a communist threat or the safety of Americans on the island.

But he was loyal to those from whom he took his orders and if at that time of great strain he contemplated resigning his post, he never spoke of it. Nor did his humor fail him. The recollection of a small relaxed dinner party at which he told story after story, some new and some old, as the table rocked with laughter is unforgettable.

Increasingly evident in the year since his death is the fact that he was trapped. He was caught between the aspirations of a world organization seeking a common way to peace and the demands of an administration in Washington resorting to nationalist solutions for situations in which force appeared the only recourse. For a man of his intelligence and sensitivity, it was a cruel trap.

This is the dilemma in which Stevenson's successor, Arthur Goldberg, finds himself. By the Lyndon Johnson persuasiveness—a brand seldom equalled in public life—Goldberg was moved to leave the Supreme Court and take a post held out as one in which the potential for achieving peace could mean salvation for the world and a crown of glory for the architect. Ambassador Goldberg finds himself limited to gestures far short of the heroic future unfolded before him in the President's study.

The U.N. is, in fact, in danger, under the one-vote rule, of falling under the control of the countries of color. With African nations joined to the Asian bloc, they could outvote the West. If and when Red China is admitted, such a powerful bloc becomes an even greater threat. A rebellion in this country against paying more than one-third the cost of the U.N. is not hard under those circumstances to foresee.

Stevenson understood this danger. He had from time to time talked about resigning and following a quieter life, including the writing he wanted to do. But public life and its perquisites had become a habit.

His friends were concerned that in the dizzy round of the U.N. it was an unfortunate habit—a drug of sorts easing the pain of so much disillusion and disappointment.

He was unlucky in his public career. Twice he ran for president against a great military hero and twice he was disastrously defeated. Nothing he might have done in those two campaigns, and particularly in the second one in 1956, was in any way likely to alter the outcome, and with his intuitive knowledge of political trends, he surely knew it. The abiding ambition he carried with him to the grave was to be secretary of state. His own mistake in judgment when at the 1960 Democratic convention he declined to deal himself out of the presidential game is widely considered to have denied him that ambition. His motives, as with any man in public life, were mixed. One certainly was a loyalty to those who still believed that he could be president and a great president.

Given the imprint he left on his time, the mark of that generous questioning spirit, Stevenson is likely to live longer in history than many of the power-grabbers and power-seekers. His heritage is written in the character of a citizen-patriot who denied the savagery and brutality of his own time

Who Is Most Revered?

"Rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief; doctor, lawyer, merchant chief..." Children used to decide who was going to be "it" by counting down that way.

Today that rhyme wouldn't fit at all. If you asked the adult whom he most revered.

A poll was taken in the United States, Great Britain, Germany and Greece to determine in each nation what sort of a people were the most enviable.

Bottom fellow used to be the top man—the prince. Only 1 per cent of the Americans aspired to the princely estate. No one did in Greece, five per cent did in Germany while in Great Britain, where the environment is best in the world for princes, only 10 per cent wished to be one. It is getting to be a poor business. Military men got a bad set back, too. The life of a general attracted only a 10 per cent response in the U.S.A. Germany, which lately lost a war, marked him down to three per cent. Only five percent in Great Britain gave him any consideration.

The USA likes its professors better than generals, 14 per cent to 10, but Great Britain esteems them 25 per cent to 5 over generals, Germany 41 per cent to 3, and Greece 36 per cent to 0.

Actually Great Britain, Germany and Greece placed the professor at the top. The USA placed him third, just below the president of a great corporation, 16 per cent to 14. But surprise of surprise, The U.S.A. most greatly respected high church authorities, 42 per cent. Great Britain made them tie for fourth, Germany placed them second and Greece at the top, 42 per cent.

Just thought you would like to know.

REA Bank Bill Threatened

Nebraskans, with their many rural electric cooperatives, and their farming interests, should be more concerned with the fate of the new REA finance bill.

It went into a closed session of the House Agriculture Committee, in Washington, Thursday, and the committee chairman, Rep. Harold Cooley, D-N.C., says it is definitely in trouble.

The bill would create a second source of credit for the rural power co-ops. It would not disturb the present financing efforts of the national Rural Electrification Administration, but would create a special REA bank which could meet the greater needs of present day rural electrification activity. The bank initially would be financed through sale of stock to the federal government and by borrowing from the commercial money market. Ultimately, it would earn its way into ownership by the electric co-ops themselves. It would not follow the present REA guidelines which extend loans to the REA's at two per cent, but would lend at varying rates higher.

The REAs greatly need this supplemental credit, but are walking squarely into stiff resistance from private power.

Nebraska depends heavily upon the REAs. It is in a poor position to stand by while the bill is being destroyed. Nebraska agriculture cannot afford to be crippled by the frustration of its electrical supply. Yet Chairman Cooley has warned that this very thing may happen.

The suggested answer that the REAs could get their money from private sources is only in part correct. Bankers will lend to going concerns, but no two bankers are apt to set up identical loan conditions. The virtue of the one source is uniform loan terms calculated to be an aid, not a handicap, to a business that started and must continue in substandard electrical areas.

Wesleyan Takes The Good Step

Nebraska Wesleyan University has firmed up arrangements under a local and federal grant for a continuing exchange relationship with Lane College of Jackson, Tennessee.

Lane college is a Negro institution with an enrollment of 640. Wesleyan is predominantly a white institution of long standing with an enrollment of 1,380.

The program aimed at an exchange of people and ideas will feature an exchange of students and faculty members, conducting some joint workshops, an athletic exchange, a choir exchange and a number of meetings of student government leaders and other personnel.

Wesleyan and Lane have been exchanging on a less extensive basis in an informal way the past three years.

Dr. Milton D. Evans, NWU dean of student affairs, explained, "We think the program will have certain catalytic properties which profit both colleges."

To this all Nebraskans will heartily agree, adding that the exchange will be a substantial example of true civil rights, an expression in fact, and a noble transaction between the two schools.

Wesleyan has been the first Nebraska college to make such an engagement.

The solution of this nation's racial difficulties can be solved by much mutual undertakings as are being engaged in by these two schools, not by the number of laws passed nor the number of demonstrations, nor in the courts.

True sharing instead of token sharing defines the need.

Car Makers Move On Safety Measure

WASHINGTON — Ever since Abba Schwartz was eulogized out of the State Department, U.S. officials have been unable to complete the arrangements he started for the International Red Cross to visit American prisoners held in North Viet Nam.

Even Undersecretary of State Averell Harriman, who tried to pick up the negotiations where Schwartz left off, has failed.

The tragedy is that Schwartz had almost arranged for Red Cross visits when he was forced out of government by the back-stage efforts of Sens. James Eastland, Miss., and Tom Dodd, Conn., with an assist from Rep. Mike Feighan, Ohio, all Democrats.

Schwartz even secured a promise from the Russians that in return for the release of certain communist prisoners in the United States they would try to get American prisoners in North Viet Nam returned home. Instead it now looks as if these Americans could be executed.

If there are more crashes on the highways, as may happen as a result of weakening the auto safety bill in the House of Representatives, it will be partly the fault of two congressmen who usually vote miles apart. They are:

Walter Rogers of Pampa, Texas, who has gone to bat for the cigarette lobby, for Madison Avenue, the big TV networks, and who is generally considered an anti-public congressman.

John Dingell of Detroit, who has battled for little business, against the networks, against the cigarette lobby, against Madison Avenue and is generally considered a pro-public congressman. Both are Democrats.

Both are also against the safety of the public and for the auto industry in the case of the auto safety bill — Rogers because he is usually against the public anyway; Dingell because he comes from Dearborn, Mich.

In his district, home of Ford's largest factory, more than half of the people are employed in the manufacture of cars, accessories, or spare parts. So Dingell is lining up where the votes are. Knowing this, the automobile lobbyists have called on him to introduce several undermining amendments.

"They haven't pressured me a bit," the young congressman from Detroit says, "and their amendments have been quite reasonable."

It's quite true the auto lobby hasn't pressured Dingell; its members are smart. They know they already have Dingell in their pocket. They have also been smart in introducing amendments. They pass them around among different congressional friends, so that each one appears innocuous. But when added together they seriously undermine the strength of the auto safety bill. Also Dingell is a bit naive, doesn't understand the legal technicalities of safety legislation, with the result that he and Rep. Rogers of Texas have been the No. 1 gutters of safety on the highways.

Lindsay Wants More City Federal Aid

WASHINGTON — When Mayor John V. Lindsay set up a working office for New York City close to the White House, he explained that it was essential "to make use of available resources."

The available resources here are federal funds. The available resources of New York and other great cities are their people, now 85 per cent of the American population, whose electoral decisions make or break presidents.

Lindsay's challenge to President Johnson to save the cities by rescuing them from their poverty was not couched in the usual shorthand of politics. It emerged nonetheless clearly from his remarks at the office and a later public speech calling for "creative federalism," a concept including a more direct allocation of federal funds to the cities and a closer working relationship between them and Washington.

The political appeal of Lindsay's approach was manifest in the polite presence of nearly all New York City congressmen at the mayor's early morning coffee hour at the new office. Most of them are Democrats, and most of them are no longer merely midweek sojourners at the Capitol as they were when Tammany Hall held power.

The senior senator, Republican Jacob Javits, attended, but Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Democrat, did not. Kennedy does not seem at the moment to need any outside assistance. Besides, he aspires to the same role for which Lindsay is reaching rather less openly.

It is the role of spokesman for the new urban age, with its premium on the masses of young voters contributed by the World War II baby boom. Recent elections prove that Kennedy and Lindsay are on the right track and may sometime confront one another in New York or nationally.

The New York office is not large, but it is shrewdly staffed by old congressional hands: Murray Drabkin, former counsel to the House Judiciary Committee, who recently masterminded the mayor's overhaul of the city's tax system, and Miss Marian G. Clow, a congressional secretary of long experience, including some years with Lindsay.

Later in the day Javits continued the case for changed federal-local relationships in a New Orleans speech to the National Association of Counties. Javits bore down on tax-sharing, a moribund proposal which seemed to have some chance of life in 1961 when proposed by Walter Heller, then chairman of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisors.

Both mayor and senator dwell upon the relatively small sums now expended in the public sector as compared to the cost of the Viet Nam war, space exploration and agriculture.

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

Inscrutable Feminine Logic

And then there was the Kansas farmer the Oxford Standard told about. He was telling that a tornado blew his well under his house, "and that it's darned inconvenient to have to crawl under the house every time he wants a bucket of water."

When Jack Stepp of the Papillion Times heard a three-minute blast of the fire alarm early one morning there, he and his family thought it meant disaster in the form of an approaching funnel cloud. They made for the basement.

His daughter, Phyllis, was loaded down with food, clothes and dragging the piano stool with one foot, he reported. His wife was stuck in another door, sewing machine in one hand and utensils, pots, pans and the family jewels in the other.

Meanwhile, he looked out a west window, saw that the sky was full of stars and, unskidding the electric iron cord from around his feet from where his wife had dropped it, informed the ladies of the household that the whole thing had been caused by a short circuit.

His wife's disgusted comment: "Humph, short circuit, my eye! It was the longest circuit I've ever heard of!"

No mere male should ever try to figure out a woman's line of reasoning or conversation.

A Hastings housewife, for instance, recently discarded a cookbook that was almost new. It apparently wasn't a very good one, she explained. "Every dish I tried came out burned."

And then there is Columnist Ruth Leadabrand of the Ashland Gazette. She has been vacationing in California, listening to the blue Pacific pound upon the shore in poetic fashion, gathering seashells, viewing flora and fauna and architecture that Tornado time reminds Harold Spence, Holdrege Citizen editor, of his grandfather who, from the dissertation, must have come under the classification of rugged individualist. He absolutely disdained storm cellars, Mr. Spence recalled. Everyone had one in those days, but while the rest of the family and neighbors huddled fearfully underground, he continued to sit in his easy chair and read the evening paper. There was one time that the family liked to tell about when they thought the old gentleman would surely change his ways. A storm had brewed up and all had taken shelter, save Grandfather, and were peering from a crack beneath the door. Finally the roaring wind routed him from the house, whirled him right off the porch and deposited him headfirst in a rain barrel. "He extricated himself from the barrel, wet and disgusted," Mr. Spence chuckled, "but still he wasn't no mood to hide out in the cellar."

are out of this world, as far as a prairie bumpkin is concerned. There was Disneyland to see and fabulous restaurants with exotic dishes to try and recipes to gather. There was a trip to the Teahachapi mountains and a steak fry up there in the rarefied atmosphere.

And what was her concluding remark for the week? "I miss my three grandsons at home."

Many Nebraska communities could probably be described as a "one-horse town." But Pawnee City became a "one-chicken town" for several weeks when a lone white hen, thought to have escaped from a poultry truck, took over the domain and wandered about at will as if she had always belonged there. She foraged for food on the streets and lots, roosted in the trees on the courthouse lawn at night and was intimidated by neither cars nor pedestrians as she crossed streets and byways.

At latest report, three boys had taken her into custody in the form of a pen, undecided what to do about her.

A Kearney golfer made a hole in one the other day. But it didn't count officially. The ball went into the hole in one shot, all right, but unfortunately it rolled down the green from the cup and into a gopher hole.

Someone from Fullerton, unidentified, visited a nearby town, also unidentified by newsmen Bill Plourd, where a restaurant offered a weekly special of "All You Can Eat For $1.10."

The proprietor noted the quantity of groceries thus tucked away, and is giving serious thought, Mr. Plourd advises, to changing the sign to read: "All You Can Eat For $4.10."

Callan's Efforts

Lincoln, Neb. The "Food for Freedom" program which our own First District congressman has promoted and supported so diligently is a big friend and customer to the Nebraska farmer.

The program casts the farmer in a major role as a producer for both our current food needs and for our overseas commitments. The national wheat acreage allotment alone for 1967 is up 15%, or an additional 7.7 million acres of wheat.

For the first time in 13 years, our wheat stocks will be under 600 million bushels — this is about one year's supply for domestic food consumption and seed. However, to insure that our nation always has access to the food it so bountifully produces, Congressman Callan has introduced the "Callan Amendment" to the "Food for Freedom" program. This amendment provides for food and fiber reserves in government hands to protect the security of the nation in any type of disaster (crop failure, broad military involvement, or any other calamity). In a sense, it recognizes that food must be regarded as essential to the national security, just as bombs, missiles and men are.

Both of these programs serve to increase the farmer's income while insuring a reasonable price because of sound programs to utilize any possible over-production.

Our farmers' ability to produce in abundance is the cornerstone of the "Food for Freedom" program. This program is a main link of the United States International Development Program — food grown here in Nebraska is a strong arm of United States security and foreign policy.

While others do nothing but criticize and degrade the Department of Agriculture and programs in general, Clair Callan continues to work effectively for the American farmer.

Basis In Truth

Lincoln, Neb. I noted with interest Dean Terrill's story datelined Beatrice on the front page of the June 25 Star, "Takes Oldtimer to Spot Blood!" This legend, generally associated with the place-name "Rawhide Creek," is one of the most persistent items of midwestern and western folklore. Several small streams in Nebraska share this story to explain where the name "Rawhide" came from. A legend is a folk tale which is told and listened to as truth, although it may or may not be historical truth. Therefore, it could very well be that this story does indeed have a basis in fact at one of the sites — but probably not all.

It is a very interesting story and provides further evidence to my contention that Nebraska has a folklore inventory as rich as that of any other place in the world.

Liquor Issue

Lincoln, Neb. We would like to take issue with the view expressed by "Concerned" in The Star on July 20. To relate the Chicago murders to the issue of liquor by the drink in Lincoln seems absurd. The spectacular murders of recent years — those done by Duane Pope, Charles Starkweather and Lee Harvey Oswald — were done while these people were fully sober. These murders were done by mental deviates whose problems were years in the development. A link between psychopathic murder and drinking does not necessarily exist, and a link with the selling of liquor by the drink is even more remote. The possibility is much greater that Richard Speck had been drinking from a bottle rather than a mixed drink.

Secondly, we would question the statistic mentioned about crime and liquor. A look in the daily record of the paper shows most felons in prison for writing of bad checks, for larceny and for forgery. It is indeed hard to relate these crimes to drinking at the time they were committed.

While the consumption of alcohol does present hazards to the community, such as incidents of drunken driving, the morality of drinking must be an individual choice. The addition of the sale of hard liquor by the drink should be only a secondary issue in the face of the ready availability of beer and liquor by the bottle.

The Magic

Lincoln, Neb.

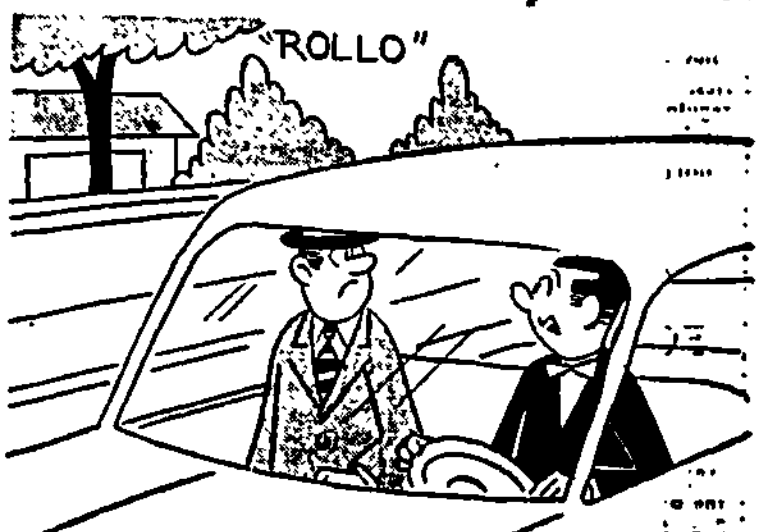

What is it that Democratic candidates find so appealing about having Republicans on their campaign staff? There must be some magic that they feel will rub off on them to help them win.

Could it be that the solid foundation of the Republican party in regard to honoring the Constitution and holding to conservative ideas...has anything to do with it?

Whatever it is, Governor Morrison made much of it and now Lt. Gov. Philip Sorenson is doing the same.

Saskatchewan 4-H Visitors Enjoying Trip To Nebraska

By JOHN DeFRAIN
Star Staff Writer

Forty 4-H Club members from Saskatchewan, Canada, are finding Nebraska a nice place to visit.

According to one young lady in fact, Nebraska is "beautiful." The Canadians, staying with Butler County
4-H Club families for a week, marvelled at Nebraska's rolling landscape and many trees.

Most Nebraskans would say the state is flat. "Flat? You'd better come up to where we live," said another girl.
Added one of the chaperones,
"It's as flat as this floor."

He was referring to the hallway of the University of Nebraska State Museum, among the stops of the travelers in Lincoln. They also visited the Capitol, KOLN-

TV and had lunch with Gov.
Frank Morrison and Mayor
Dean Petersen—thanks to the Jaycees.

"Outrageous"
Other things they liked about Nebraska were the prices, which they said are quite low. The price of farm machinery in Canada is "outrageous" compared to the profits on crops, they said.
Combines run as high as $20,000.

One boy said his family recently purchased a standard model six cylinder Ford car for more than $3,700. Food costs slightly more here, according to the Canadians.

Crops in Saskatchewan are quite different—mostly wheat.
The "only corn we ever see is in our garden," said a leader, and for many this was the first time they had heard of milo. There is also much less livestock where they come from.

The farm buildings in Nebraska are "huge," the water supply is "wonderful," and the state has irrigation systems, something just being developed in Saskatchewan.

Hot There, Too
Tops on the like list was the scenery, hospitality and the girls.

Anything they didn't like?
Well, not meaning to hurt any one's feelings or anything, but Nebraskans are always asking Canadians how nice and cool it must be up there. "This is funny," said a chaperone, "because it was 100 degrees when we left last Sunday."

F. D. Lee, Lawyer, At Atkinson, Is Named Senator

Gov. Frank Morrison
Thursday appointed Francis
D. Lee, an Atkinson attorney and former mayor, to the Legislature for the unexpired term of the late Sen. Frank Nelson of O'Neill.

Sen. Nelson, 82, who had served in the Unicameral since 1949, died last week after being fatally burned in a tractor accident on his farm.

Lee, 54, will serve an interim term until Jan. 9, 1967.
He graduated from Creighton University Law School in 1935 and was an attorney for the Federal Land Bank for three years before beginning his practice at Atkinson.

Lee is married and has nine children.

He is the third interim senator appointed by Morrison this year. Previous appointments filled the seats of the late Sens. Cecil Craft of North Platte and Ira E.
Paine of Grand Island.

Ev Pauses On Prayer

Washington (AP)—Sen. Ever-

force a showdown now on his constitutional amendment that would permit voluntary prayers in public schools.

Parole Plattsmouth Woman Convicted On Drug Charge

The State Board of Pardons and Paroles Thursday granted a parole to a Plattsmouth woman convicted of obtaining narcotic drugs by fraud.

Cora Lee Nolte, 42, was sentenced to a four-year term in the Nebraska Women's Reformatory at York Nov. 16, 1964 in Washington County District Court.

According to parole officials she had earlier jumped bail on the charge and fled to Kansas, where she was apprehended.

Mrs. Nolte had been convicted of similar charges in four other states dating back to a federal conviction in 1946, parole authorities said.

The board also granted paroles to nine state penitentiary inmates and 14 men at the state reformatory.

The two to three-year term of Jerold W. Cook, 20, of Iowa was commuted. He was sentenced May 20, 1965 in Wayne County for a burglary charge.

Three inmates had their penitentiary sentences commuted to detainers for their arrest. They were Melvin Gulbranson, 38, of Fremont, sentenced to two years July 3, 1965 in Dodge County for drunk driving and bench parole violation.

David G. Pritchett, 21, Grand Island, serving a one-year term from a Lancaster County conviction May 5, 1965 for insufficient check charges and Jack Bonebrake, 23, of Iowa serving a four-year term for breaking and entering from Scotts Bluff County. He was convicted Aug. 13, 1964.

Guideline Meets For Elementary Schools Start

Chadron (AP)—The second of a series of six meetings being conducted by the State Department of Education on voluntary guidelines for elementary schools drew a good turnout and was termed a good interchange of knowledge.

The meetings are being attended by county superintendents, three persons named by the superintendents and any other interested parties. The two meetings thus far, the first at Kearney, have brought about good discussion of kindergarten provisions, library provisions and degree of teachers proposals, Mel Olsen of the State Education Department said.

Olsen said those three provisions are the most misunderstood of all the proposed guidelines and he said he expected changes would be made before the guidelines are put into operation.

Lincoln Firm Buys Wyoming Newspaper

By Associated Press

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Fessler Thursday announced the sale of the semi-weekly Torrington (Wyo.) Telegram to a Lincoln firm, effective Aug. 1.

The newly formed corporation which acquires ownership is owned by Mr. and Mrs. James Stuart of Lincoln, who also own radio stations in Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Illinois, and an outdoor advertising firm.

Sale price was not reported.

Executive Vice President Richard W. Chapin announced the appointment of Bob D. Collins as publisher of the telegram. Collins, 33, has been associated with newspapers in Nebraska and New Mexico for 14 years, most recently as business manager of the Gallup (N.M.) Daily Independent.

The Fesslers said they plan to retire and divide their time between their residence in Cheyenne, Wyo., and Estes Park, Colo.

Collins and his wife, De Voe, and four children will move to Torrington later this week and live in the former Fessler residence.

The Stuart Radio stations are KFOR in Lincoln, KSAL in Salina, KMNS in Sioux City, KOEL in Oelwein, Iowa, KRGI in Grand Island and WMAY in Springfield, Ill. Also owned is Imperial Outdoor Advertising, Inc., of Lincoln and Sioux City.

Northeast Diagonal Funds In Doubt

By BOB SCHREFF
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Thursday night reviewed the tax-supported public works budget for 1966-67 and left a big question mark after a request for $450,000 to begin preliminary engineering work and land acquisition for the Northeast Diagonal.

Council members Lloyd Hinkley and John Comstock particularly questioned the advisability of budgeting the sum before routing of the freeway and methods of financing are figured out.

However, Acting Public Works Director Robert Obering explained that only a fragment of the money would be used immediately in the next fiscal year—that to be used for an alignment and route location study.

The balance, which would amount to an estimated $425,000, would be used for first-stage right-of-way acquisition once exact route is determined.

Hopeful

Obering said he is "hopeful that the next session of the Legislature will provide cities with more revenues for street construction . . . methods of financing will have to be worked out in the next two years one way or the other."

As in past years, financing of the multi-million dollar project is an issue causing grave concern among council members. No decisions were made as the council discussed the merits of a bond issue or gaining a federal aid project designation as the best and most efficient financing method.

There was some talk of abandoning the project and using the arterial street system as an alternative.

Tentative approval was given to projects budgeted in the street construction fund, financed by Lincoln's share of gas tax revenues and auto registration, and projects financed by wheel tax revenue.

Approval

Some of the items approved are two-year projects carried over from this fiscal year. Projects and funds for which informal approval was given:

Vehicle tax account: arterial street resurfacing, $200,000; subsidy on wide roadways in paving districts, $50,000; surfacing, curbs, walks and signals on 9th, from Q to K, $125,000; widening and surfacing of 10th, from N to K, $70,000; Vine, 16th to Hollywood, $375,000 and contingency, $7,200.

Street Construction fund:

South St., 8th to 38th, $910,000; widening and surfacing of K and L, from 9th to 16th, $165,000; Improving A St., from 9th to 31st, $325,000; right-of-way for the Holdrege St. bypass, $50,000 and contingency, $12,500.

Estimated expenditures of wheel tax funds for 1966-67 is $1,327,200, up $400,000 over last year. Obering noted that expected receipts should total $470,000. The fund now carries a balance of close to $1 million.

Expenditures requested from the street construction fund amount to $1,912,500, an increase of $787,524. The fund balance as of the start of the next fiscal year is estimated at $1,089,500, with receipts for next year figured at $823,000.

Bomb Scare Inside Job? Deputies Checking Phones

The possibility that someone inside the building made Thursday's bomb scare call to the Brunswick Corp. Plant in Lincoln was being checked by Lancaster County Sheriff's deputies.

Of the many phones in the building only one is connected directly to an outside line, according to deputy Del Zelman. Other phones go through the plant's main switchboard, he said.

Deputy Paul Nowakowski said the single outside phone would be dusted for fingerprints to try to determine who used it last.

Evacuated

Thursday's call, which came almost 24 hours behind a similar threatening call Wednesday, again triggered the evacuation of some 85 to 90 Brunswick employees.

Plant guard Harold Harmon said he received the call at 12:42 p.m. from a man who talked with a steady, but high-pitched, nasal whine.

Crooks Use Rivet Gun, Still Fail To Open Safe

Intruders using a powerful .22 caliber stud rivet gun and a core drill Wednesday night unsuccessfully attempted to crack the safe at Mr. B's Grocery Store, 48th and Van Dorn.

However, an estimated $5,000 coin collection and some $500 to $600 in store change was taken in the break-in. The coin collection belonged to store manager Maynard Brummer, police said.

Blaze At Terminal Building Closes Store Temporarily

A blaze in an elevator shaft in the Terminal Building, 10th and O, Thursday resulted in temporary closing of Terminal Drug, a business located in the corner of the structure. The store will open again at 6:30 a.m. Friday.

Other businesses and offices in and near the building remained open after the fire, which was probably touched off by sparks from a workman's torch, according to Fire Inspector Dewayne McIntyre.

Some 69,000 voter registration slips, located in an office adjacent to the elevator well in which the fire occurred, escaped damage, according to the county election commissioner's office.

The fire was reported about 11 a.m. Five fire fighting rigs responded to the alarm.

Thick, acrid smoke poured from the front door of the building as firemen set up exhaust fans in an effort to clear the lower floor.

Office tenants many of whom remained in the 10-story building during the fire, watched from windows while a crowd watched from the street.

Fire Inspector McIntyre said the major portion of the damage was confined to the elevator shaft and the basement. There was also considerable smoke damage in the basement and on the first floor, as well as some smoke damage to floors higher up, he said.

Police Inspector Robert Sawdon said he doubted that the two break-ins were connected.

At Mr. B's, the stud rivet gun was loaded with about three-eighths-inch spiked lag bolts which were fired into the back of the safe.

The core drill was mounted on the bolts and plugs of about eight inches in depth were cut into the safe.

When the core drill got hot, the burglars strung a 50-foot garden hose from a faucet in

Plane Loss To Reds' Fire Totals 300 Now

Saigon—Two more U.S. planes went down in North Viet Nam Thursday, the U.S. command announced Friday, raising to 300 the total lost in the aerial campaign launched against the north 17 months ago. The two raised to nine the number lost this week.

On the ground U.S. headquarters reported there was new fighting in a combined U.S.-Vietnamese operation on North Viet Nam's doorstep.

Waves of U.S. jets struck at North Viet Nam Thursday in the face of mounting communist fire. They encountered what a spokesman described as numerous surface-to-air missiles during strikes on oil depots and communications lines.

A spokesman said preliminary reports indicated no communist MIGs were sighted during Thursday's raids.

The spokesman did not give the number of Soviet-made missiles launched against the U.S. jets beyond saying they were numerous.

In recent weeks, the communists have filled the skies with the 36-foot-long "Flying telephone poles."

Hastings Action
Meanwhile U.S. headquarters also reported an outbreak of fighting in operation Hastings in which U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops are pushing against North Vietnamese army regulars just south of the demilitarized zone.

The U.S. command disclosed a decline last week in overall American casualties, including the start of Operation Hastings.

A spokesman announced 65 Americans were killed, 368 wounded and none missing in combat July 10-16, compared with 110 killed, 620 wounded and seven missing in the previous week. In all the allied combat dead totaled 279; communist dead were listed at 1,200. An unofficial roll of Americans killed in five years of war rose to 4,304.

In Saigon, the attempted fire suicide of a young monk drew attention to sporadic efforts of splinter groups to revive the Buddhist-led antigovernment campaign — marked by 10 such suicides—that Premier Nguyen Cao Ky crushed last month.

The monk, Quan Tuong, 18, set his gasoline-soaked robes aflame in a muddy street outside the Buddhist Youth Institute. Inside, a hunger-striking militant, Thich (Venerable) Tri Quang, was again demanding that Ky resign. Spectators said Tuong squatted for 10 minutes in his burning clothing, then toppled backward into a puddle of water. He was hospitalized in a critical condition.

Status Changed
In relation to hostilities above the border:

—The U. S. Command changed its designation for pilots held in North Viet Nam in an apparent move to discredit Hanoi's efforts to label them war criminals. Formerly listed simply as detained, the fliers and other military prisoners will henceforth be officially described as "captured or interned." The Hanoi regime is reported holding 63 Americans, almost all of them pilots.

—In Washington the Pentagon, saying it acted "in the best interest of the personnel missing in action in Viet Nam," issued a list of the Americans in North Vietnamese hands. This reclassified as prisoners 29 Navy men previously carried on the rolls as missing.

Tax Vote Decision Rehearing Sought

Forces opposing a state-wide vote in November on the 1965 income tax act Thursday asked the State Supreme Court to reconsider its decision ordering the volatile issue on the ballot.

Attorney Bernard S. Gradwohl filed a motion for rehearing and a supporting brief in the case.

The court will now determine whether it wants to accept the motion. If it does, oral arguments will be scheduled.

However, chances for a reconsideration appeared dim.

The court ruled unanimously July 1 that the referendum placing the tax act before the voters did not violate state law or the constitution, and that the more than 80,000 (only 27,950 were needed) signatures gathered were thoroughly valid.

It rejected without qualification Gradwohl's argument that the referendum was invalid because signatures were secured before the Legislature adjourned last August and that the petition form did not carry a true text of the act.

Normally, the court rehears cases only when a wide diversity of opinion exists among the seven justices. This can generally be detected by a split ruling.

The lawsuit challenging the referendum was filed by David City farmer John Klosterman, head of the pro-income tax "Nebraskans For Fair Taxation" organization.

The Lancaster County District Court ruled in favor of Klosterman in early May but the Supreme Court overturned this judgment.

In his brief, Gradwohl, Klosterman's attorney, alleged the high tribunal made six major errors in reversing District Judge Bartlett E. Boyles.

These include, he claimed, the finding that the referendum petition did not have to contain a copy of a key amendment attached to the tax bill by the Legislature.

The amendment exempted most farmer co-ops from the tax. It was approved nearly two months after the income tax bill was approved.

"It becomes obvious from the very face of the constitution itself that the purported referendum has not complied with the legal requirements," the Lincoln lawyer said.

"The (court) opinion simply sets up a straw man and knocks it down."

Gradwohl called the court's reasoning "unfounded and dangerous." He declared the ruling, "Has not only disregarded public policy and reasonableness; but has overlooked or ignored the reported decisions of every court which has passed upon this matter."

In its decision, the court said the constitution should be liberally interpreted to allow taxpayers to vote in November on acceptance or rejection of the income tax.

It said the people are the co-equal of the legislature under the state's power of initiative and referendum.

Callan Seeks Answers On Base Housing

Washington (AP)—Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb., has called on Defense Department officials to decide this week what will be done with military housing at the Lincoln, Neb., Air Force Base, closed earlier this year.

Department officials, he said, expressed belief something can be worked out as to 1,000 surplus homes. Callan said he told them if something is not done this week, he will take his demand for immediate action to the secretary of the Air Force.

Some of the 1,000 units are mortgaged and the Defense Department must "make good on them," Callan said. It is a question as to how they can be disposed of, he said, to keep the 1,000 homes from being a burden.

He explained he is trying being dumped onto the Lincoln housing market and to work out some means of renting and maintaining them.

The housing has been declared surplus and placed with the General Service Administration for disposal.

Callan said that north of the base are some World War II barracks housing primarily university students. The Lincoln Housing Authority wants to get rid of this housing, he said, but provisions first must be made for the occupants to rent other housing such as that at the Air Force Base at reasonable rents.

Money Allocated For Park Land At Crofton Site

Washington (AP)—The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation has allocated $4,500 for acquisition of 16 acres for park and recreation purposes at Crofton, Neb.

Local sources will supply an additional $2,250 and $2,250 will come from the state's cigarette tax fund.

The action was announced today by Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb.

LIFE

goes on as usual in the suburban areas

of interest

Lincoln will have much more than casual interest this morning in the announcement of the engagement of Miss Barbara Lewis of Arlington, Va., daughter of Mrs. Price Lewis, also of Arlington, and Col. Willis F. Lewis of Paris, France, to Eric James Swenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey George Swenson of Lincoln.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, Sept. 10. Miss Lewis attended Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia. Mr. Swenson was graduated from Blair Academy, Blairstown, N.J., and from Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif. He now is a senior in the College of Law at George Washington University in Washington.

The engagement was announced to Washington and Arlington friends last Saturday evening when Mr. Swenson's brother, Christopher Swenson, was a party host at the Sheraton Park Hotel. Among the guests, of course, were Mr. and Mrs. Swenson who returned home on Wednesday.

Traffic, as usual, is brisk in and out of Lincoln, as suburban residents leave for—and return from—their summer vacations. And out-of-towners come to our city to visit and to sight-see. Today's news is comprised of some exciting vacation memories, and a "hello" to some new residents.

MAPLE VILLAGE

Returned recently from a two-week vacation in North Dakota are Mrs. William B. Ketter, and her daughters Cathy, and Debbie. Mr. and Mrs. Ketter drove to Ryder, N.D., on July 4, and Mr. Ketter returned to Lincoln on the following day. But Ryder is Mrs. Ketter's hometown, so there was family visiting to be done, and it included Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Simmons, her parents, as well as many other relatives.

A combined family reunion and double birthday celebration was held in Ryder on Sunday, July 10, when the birthday honorees were Debbie Ketter, and her great-grandfather, Henry Rime, of Ryder, who is 81. Both birthdays are actually this week, but the early celebrating was occasioned by the family get-together. Mrs. Ketter and the children returned to Lincoln last Friday.

New arrivals, Mr. and Mrs. Elard A. Mumm, have found Lincoln and Maple Village "friendly." Mr. and Mrs. Mumm and their two year-old son David, moved to Lincoln three weeks ago from Yutan.

On Tuesday, July 19, Mrs. Mumm was an honored guest at a "Get Acquainted" coffee at the home of Mrs. Robert Cornelius. Another of the new arrivals to the neighborhood, Mrs. Larry Riners also was included on the guest list.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert W. Cook, and their sons, Garth, 6, and Gary, 5, returned to Lincoln on Monday after a two-week vacation. They combined tents and motels during their stop-overs in Yellowstone National Park, and in the Teton Mountains. Mrs. Cook said they "enjoyed the camping most of all."

One of the campgrounds, where the Cook family pitched their tent, was at Colter Jay, Wyo., and there they met people from all over the United States. The Cooks also met some of the native Teton residents when they fed the domesticated animals and birds which always are close at hand. A rare Western Tanager landed on their breakfast table one morning and received a hearty meal for his trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook and their family turned mountain-climbers for one day of their vacation. They took a boat ride across Lake Jenny, and then hiked three miles up to a hidden waterfall.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Dwain Kanter of Chappell announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Wauneta Muriel, of Lincoln, to John Allen Ruwe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Ruwe of Hooper.

The wedding is planned for Sunday, Aug. 21.

Miss Kanter is a graduate of the Lincoln School of Commerce.

Mr. Ruwe is a graduate of the Nebraska Vocational Technical Institute at Millard, and now is attending the University of Nebraska.

TALK

of the town

The astronauts are safe — the heat wave has been broken, at least temporarily—the wheat was fine, the corn looks good—So—there doesn't seem to be much cause for worry.

Around town things are moving at a normal pace, for this season of the year, but business will be picking up, socially speaking, before too long.

There's nothing dull about the news this morning, however. Do you remember that a week or so ago we mentioned a wedding that would be of particular interest? Well, we're mentioning it again today—the whole thing is off. No wedding.

We do have guests to mention this morning—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kidder and their children, Deborah, Robert, Kim and Kenneth, arrived on Wednesday from Titusville, Fla., to spend two weeks as the guests of Mr. Kidder's mother, Mrs. Gerald Carpenter, and Mr. Carpenter. We hear that numerous courtesies have been planned for the visitors during their stay in town.

Before returning to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Kidder and their family will go to Fairbury for a visit with Mr. Kidder's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kidder and their family—Then—to St. Paul, Minn., where they will be the guests of Mrs. Kidder's sister and her family.

This weekend will bring Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Endacott home from the west coast. Among the places Mr. and Mrs. Endacott visited was Pebble Beach, Calif., where they spent a few days.

On Thursday evening's party calendar was a party shower for which Mrs. Clyde Mauk was hostess when she entertained for bride-elect Miss Camille DeVriendt.

Miss DeVriendt's marriage to Joseph Hrabka, III, will take place on Aug. 6.

This morning Miss Carol Stoner, whose marriage to Robert Decker of Hastings will be solemnized on July 30, makes announcement of the bridal entourage.

For her maid of honor Miss Stoner has chosen her sister, Miss Kay Stoner, and her bridesmaids will be Miss Jean Perrin and Miss Janis Joyn. The bride-elect's sisters, Marilyn and Margaret Stoner will be the junior bridesmaids, and lighting the candles will be Mrs. Gale Henderson of Beatrice, and Mrs. Thomas Thomsen.

Dennis Decker will serve his brother as best man, and the ushers will be Roger Schulz of Hastings; William Struyk of Sheldon, Iowa; William Weatherholt of Stanton; Lowell Harvey of North Platte, and William Stoner, III.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have an exceptionally beautiful 24-year-old niece who has recently been divorced. (No children.) She lived a long way from here and I am sure no one in this town knows that she was ever married. In view of the fact that her marriage lasted only a short time, and the divorce was no fault of hers, do you think it is necessary for me to tell people that she is a divorcee?

Why spoil her chances? She wants to forget the past and start life anew. She is coming to visit soon and I know several very nice young men who could be very much interested in her.

HER AUNT

DEAR AUNT: Yes, tell them. Unless the young lady is completely devoid of integrity, when one of those "nice young men" asks her, "How come a nice girl like you isn't married," she will most certainly reply, "I was."

DEAR ABBY: For my high school graduation I got several of those little clutch purses so I took a very pretty white beaded one back to the store for either a refund or an exchange. They looked at it and said that purse didn't come from their store, which kind of shocked me because it was all nicely gift-wrapped in a box with their name on it.

I was sort of embarrassed. Should I call the lady who gave it to me and ask her where she got it? I really have no use for it.

"OVER-CLUTCHED" DEAR ABBY: NO. That's probably how SHE got it. Don't embarrass her.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BRIDGE

test dummy play

B. Jay Becker

TEST YOUR PLAY You are declarer with the West hand at Six Spades. North leads the jack of clubs, which you ruff, dummy and South having followed low. What is your plan of play?

♠ A Q J 10 8
♥ A K 9 8 5
♦ A Q J

The first thing you have to realize is that you cannot make the slam if the trumps are divided 4-1. If either opponent had four trumps and you drew them, you would be out of trumps and would automatically go down. You must therefore start by assuming a 3-2 division of trumps.

The next step is to consider how the hearts are divided. Here, also, you must make an assumption before proceeding with the play. The assumption is that the hearts are not divided 3-2, for, if they are, you make the slam by any line of play.

It is not that you don't want the hearts to be divided 3-2 — you surely do — but that you must decide how to play the hand on the basis that they are divided 4-1. (You can't assume a 4-0 break because that would make the contract unmanageable.)

it exists TODAY!...
"POOR WHITE TRASH"

GEIER'S BAKERY

Baking "from Scratch", not from mixes... TASTE the DIFFERENCE! 7th & Vine Normal & South

Once you've assumed a 4-1 heart division, you must deal with the case where North has the four-card length and also with the case where South has the four-card length. One way to approach the double-edged problem is by starting North with some such hand as:

♠ 62 ♥ Q J 7 3 ♦ 8 4 2 ♣ J 10 8 5

At trick two you lead the ace of hearts, on which South would play the ten. Now you enter dummy with a diamond and lead a heart. If South ruffs, you later draw two rounds of trumps, cash the king of hearts, ruff a heart, and thus make the slam. If South does not ruff, you win the heart with the king and give up a heart. After this, you cannot be prevented from ruffing a heart high and will thus produce twelve tricks.

If North has the singleton ten, jack or queen, the play is much simpler. After cashing the ace of hearts, you draw three rounds of trumps, then enter dummy with a diamond and lead a heart. If South follows low, you finesse the eight, while if South produces the jack or queen, you win it with the king and lead the nine of hearts.

If both opponents follow low on the ace of hearts at trick two, it is still best to enter dummy with a diamond in order to lead a heart from dummy. This method of play succeeds whenever North has the Q-J-10-x of hearts.

it's a bake sale on wheels

Money isn't everything, so 'tis said—but it helps. And because money definitely is necessary for all of its civic and philanthropic projects, the Mrs. JayCees goes about its money-making in unique and interesting ways. Sometimes it is a fashion show—sometimes it's a bridge benefit—and sometimes the organization has a bake sale—like today, for instance.

But perish the thought that this is just an ordinary, everyday bake sale—not when the Mrs. JayCees are doing it. The one scheduled for today is a "traveling" bake sale.

The Mrs. JayCees have been presented with the services of two trucks which will be loaded with delectable and delicious homemade breads, rolls, cakes, pies—you ask for it, and the gals will have it.

The traveling bake sale will be on its way promptly at 10 o'clock this morning, and starting from Northborough Lane the trucks will go in different directions—and keep going until the cargo is completely gone. The members of the Mrs. JayCees bake sale committee believe this will take about four hours—They're too pessimistic—an hour should do it.

How To Handle An 8-Footer

Hastings—Suppose you're one of the golfers playing in the Nebraska State Men's Amateur Tournament here this week and you come up to the final hole Saturday afternoon faced with an eight-foot putt that would give you the championship. What do you do?

"I'd probably choke and stub it about two feet," says one entrant who shall remain nameless in case the situation really does come up for him.

But most of the others who were grabbed by The Star's inquiring reporter took a more positive attitude.

No Pressure If To Win

Some even felt there would be no pressure if the eight-footer were to win, but it would be a different story if an eight-foot putt were needed for a tie.

Dean Wilson Jr. of Omaha, who won the title in 1960, falls in this category.

"I don't think there would be any pressure if it were to win," Wilson replied. "I think I'd probably just knock it in."

Lincoln's Charlie Borner agrees. "After you've played all the way through the tournament, I don't think there would be that much pressure if you knew the putt was for a win."

"You could still tie and get a playoff by getting it down in two."

The Mental Approach

Six-time state champion Bob Astleford has a simple approach.

"I'd just think it into the hole," says the confident Omaha, who is going after a fifth straight championship and a seventh that would put him alongside Sam Reynolds as the winningest golfer in the tourney's history.

Others would take a more scientific approach to the problem.

"I'd look it over real good," says Dave Franklin, the Fremont airman. "Then I'd take a deep breath and putt it."

"You'd try to get the green read right because if you read it right, you've got a chance to make it."

Noting that he'd love to be faced with the situation, Lincoln's Phil Breitfelder figures speed would be the biggest factor in his thinking.

"I'd be thinking of speed as the major factor," he explains. "If you had it on line, then it would go in and if you didn't, all you'd have left would be a tap in for the tie... if the speed were judged correctly."

Just Like All The Rest

Golfers Matt Taber and Dick Spangler Jr., both of the Lincoln Country Club, would play it like any other putt.

"I wouldn't do anything about the pressure," Matt confides. "I'd just play it like all the other putts I have. I'd mainly be trying to make sure I hit a good putt."

Spangler, a three-time champion, figures concentration to be the key.

"I'd be trying to concentrate real good," the Lincolnite, who shot a five-under-par 67 at the Lincoln Country Club Sunday, points out.

"I'd just try to stick to the same routine," he continues. "I'd be thinking more about hitting the putt correctly than about making it."

These are the theories. The actual occasion could come up here late Saturday afternoon.

TWO SHARE PGA LEAD

...Snead, Geiberger Set Opening-Round Pace With 68s

Akron, Ohio (AP)—Slammin' Sammy Snead, 54, dog-tired and full of aches and pains, struck a blow for the paunchy and middle-aged with a two-under-par 68 Thursday that sent him into a tie with lanky Al Geiberger for the opening round lead in the 50th anniversary PGA Golf Championship.

Palmer and Jack Nicklaus were scrambling to fat 75s, the amazing Snead boomed his big drives down the Firestone Country Club fairways and putted sensationally for a share of top place in the field of 165.

he took a 6 on the 625-yard 16th and had to settle for a tie.

The two front-runners had

Thursday's Results, Page 14

a one stroke edge over Julius Boros, the 46-year-old two-time National Open Champion; Doug Sanders, second in the year's money winning list, and Don January, a leathery Texan who hasn't won a four tournament since 1963. They were tied at 69.

Sanders, playing behind Snead among the late finishers, came to the 465-yard final hole needing only a par for a 67.

He hooked his drive into the tall rough and tried to go for the green with a wood. He topped the shot, moving the ball only 10 yards. He sent a five-iron to the front edge of the green and then needed three to get down for a double bogey 6.

"I just didn't have it," he said.

Disappointment was just as keen for the advance favorites.

Palmer, a 4-1 choice to capture his first PGA, missed seven putts of six feet and under. "I couldn't get the ball rolling right—that was the story," he said.

Nicklaus, finishing with a brace of bogeys, moaned, "I played miserably."

Asked how he was driving, he said, "Awful—I kept getting behind trees." He buried his approaches in traps on two of the finishing holes.

Billy Casper, who beat Palmer in a playoff for the National Open crown last month at San Francisco, missed three putts of less than a yard—two measured at 24 inches—and shot a 73 which he blamed on rubber fumes from Akron's tire factories.

"I wheezed and coughed all over the place," he said. "I'm going home and get some oxygen."

Defending champion Dave Marr had a string of four straight bogeys and took a triple bogey 8 on the 16th where he dumped his fourth shot in the lake for a 75.

Gary Player, who shares a corner of golf's Big Three with Palmer and Nicklaus, had to settle for a 73. He had a putt go in and out on the first hole and rimmed the cup with an eagle try on the second.

"That was disappointing, but I played as well as I'm capable of doing," he said.

Only five players broke the 35-35-70 par of the 7, 180-yard Firestone Country Club course and none matched it, although the weather was ideal—cool, clear and virtually no wind.

The layout played long in the morning when Palmer, Marr and Casper were on the course but became faster in drying out in the late afternoon. Even that wasn't enough for Nicklaus and Player.

The 28-year-old Geiberger, who carries peanut and jelly sandwiches in his bag for nourishment, came charging toward the lead in the late afternoon and seemed to have it when he birdied the 14th from five feet.

But on the 625-yard 16th, his drive went into a fairway bunker and he had to chip into the fairway. Then he pushed a two-iron into the rough near the green. His fourth was 12 feet past and he missed the putt.

Astleford Has State Amateur Lead

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Hastings—Defending champion Bob Astleford salvaged a bogey on the final hole with a 12-foot downhill putt to gain medalist honors in the Nebraska State Men's Amateur Golf Tournament with a two-under-par 70 at the Lockland Country Club here Thursday.

The putt, which came after the 36-year-old Omaha bachelorette had hit his tee shot into the water on the 515-yard, par five 18th, saved him from a tie with Scott Brunzell of Lincoln and Don Bridge of Norfolk, both of whom had finished earlier with 71s.

The trio were the only golfers to break par on the 6,675-yard Lockland course in the opening round of the tournament. Omaha's Bob Mittera matched par with a 72 that put him in fourth place with 54 holes remaining in the tourney.

Astleford, who teed off just after rains that had fallen since 4 a.m. began to subside, had to play only a couple of holes before the rain stopped completely.

Playing with Al Blessing of Hastings as the last group off the tee in the championship night, Astleford birdied two of the first seven holes to go two-under-par at the turn.

He birdied the 485-yard, par 5 fourth hole after hitting his second shot into a trap and then birdied the 505-yard, par 5 seventh after reaching the green in two and leaving his eagle putt hanging on the lip of the cup.

The six-time champion took his first bogey at No. 10, a 500-yard, par 5 hole, when he hit into the edge of the rough, then got into sand traps with the next two shots.

Astleford went three-under-par with successive birdies on Nos. 14 and 15 before seeing his shot and the $35 medalist prize endangered by a shot into the lake.

"I just hit it bad," Astleford said in explaining how his ball took the bath at No. 15.

After dropping a ball and getting it across the water with a three-wood, Astleford used a nine-iron to chip 12 feet from the pin.

"I knew I had to have it to be medalist," he said of the final putt. "And it broke about eight inches to the left."

But it went in the hole giving him a bogey on the par 5 hole despite the ball that was resting at the bottom of the lake.

Bridge, a 44-year-old Norfolk golfer, has been medalist twice in the men's tournament, in 1957 at Omaha Happy Hollow and in 1962 with a 68 at Omaha Highland Country Club.

He barely missed gaining the honor a third time despite playing the first six holes in a heavy rain and the seventh in a drizzle.

Bridge started his round with a birdie four and followed with a par four, four strokes better than his score after the first two holes in his qualifying round.

He sank a two-foot putt for the birdie on the 485-yard first hole and added another birdie with a deuce on the 200-yard eighth, running in a 35-footer after reaching the green with a two-iron off the tee.

Making the turn in two-under-par 34, Bridge had trouble with the par three's on the back side, bogeying both the 240-yard 12th and the 185-yard 15th.

Another bogey hit him at No. 17, but he birdied No. 16 with a 14-inch putt and the 18th with a five-footer.

Out of the fairway only once the entire 18 holes, Brunzell turned in a round of 36-35 for his 71 that tied him with Bridge, one stroke back of Astleford.

Brunzell birdied the only hole in which he missed the fairway. His first drive, hit in Thursday morning's heavy rain, landed in the right rough, but the Lincoln South-east senior came back to run a three-foot putt for the birdie.

Brunzell, who missed the state high school championship because of a technical ruling by the Nebraska Schools Activities Association, also canned birdie putts of 12 feet on No. 8, eight feet on No. 10 and 18 feet on No. 14, his longest putt of the day.

Brunzell, making his first appearance in the state tournament, figured his driving was the key part of his success on the long Lockland course Thursday.

"My drives were putting me in good position for the second shot," the 17-year-old Lincolnite explained.

All of the golfers who figured to give Astleford his toughest battle for the crown must now come from several shots off the pace with 54 holes remaining.

Lincoln's Larry Romjue and Dick Spangler Jr. both had 74s, as did Dave Franklin of Fremont. Contenders Matt Taber and Charlie Borner, both of Lincoln, are five shots off the pace with 25s.

PRISCILLA SEES HOPE

While my hopes for a rally weren't entirely successful Thursday I did manage to slow the outflow from my spree fund.

What happened? My selection in the third race, Snoopy, was scratched. Nanburg, the choice in the fourth race, ran third trimming my onetime $92 spree fund to $76.

YOUR POOR OLD AUNT PRISCILLA EXPECTS SUCCESS FRIDAY.

I'll invest in $2 win tickets on Doc's Folly in the fourth race and Red Buster in the fifth race.

Like Uncle Charlie used to say, "We have nothing to fear but slow horses and smart jockeys."

Mundorf Wins On Billispace, Happy Vie

By JOHN HINES
Star Sports Writer

It pays to go with an established winner and the idea that a champ remains a champ until beaten took effect pointedly at State Fairgrounds horse racing Thursday.

Four of the eight winners kept winning streaks going and three of them were ridden by Robert Mundorf of Johnstown, S.D., in the last three races of the day, including Happy Vie and Billispace in the sixth and seventh co-features.

Billispace, in his first official trip to the post here this year, covered the six furlongs in 1:12.4, fastest jaunt over that distance since Ala Connie's 1:12.3 Thursday of last week.

It was also the fourth consecutive victory for the fast-moving bay filly owned by M. H. Van Berg of Columbus and trained by Jack Van Berg. Billispace had to hurry, too, to overcome Bo Dorin's two-length margin entering the far turn, but she roared along the outside down the stretch to win by a length and a quarter.

Mundorf also won on Kathy's Pride in a come-from-behind photo finish in the eighth. World Herald set the pace and had a lead of three lengths going into the far turn before Kathy's Pride started moving to win by a nose at the finish. Both horses won in their last efforts last week, but over six furlongs. Thursday's race was a mile long.

Happy Vie, Mundorf's winning mount in the sixth race, also remembered the taste of victory the last time he raced, July 1 at Ak-Sar-Ben, and broke open a close battle in the stretch to finish first by 5 1/2 lengths.

It was the right day for extended winning streaks, all right, for Dusty G. in the fifth made it two in a row under Kenneth Hare by winning a length and a quarter verdict.

In that six-furlong heat, Dusty G. established herself as the pacesetter by Cy's Nephew and Bobby Scott were closing in at the finish, only a length separating them between place and show money.

The daily double featured two exciting races and a 3-4 payoff of $31.40.

Omahan Sinks 12-Foot Putt To Salvage Lead

... BRUNZELL, BRIDGE TRAIL BY STROKE

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Hastings—Bob Astleford knew he had to have a 12-foot putt at the 18th hole for medalist honors in the Nebraska State Men's Amateur Golf Tournament here Thursday and he got it.

But the brilliant Omahan figures the $35 merchandise prize he wins for being medalist is far less important than the stroke lead it gave him over Scott Brunzell and Don Bridge, and the four and five-stroke lead it gave him over other top contenders.

"I'm not concerned about being medalist now," Astleford explained, "as long as I'm medalist after the 72 holes."

The 36-year-old Omaha home builder figures the 18th hole also served another important purpose.

"I think I learned a good lesson on that hole," he explained, discussing the hole that requires two shots over a huge lake, one more than Astleford got over it Thursday.

"It taught me that you can still make a six on that hole even after putting a ball in the water," Astleford continued, puffing on a cigar and sipping a scotch and soda.

His tee shot into the water on the 515-yard 18th was one of the few bad shots Astleford hit during Thursday's opening round.

"I hit a bad iron shot on No. 13," he pointed out. "I was undecided on what club to hit so I just hit it badly."

"And what I thought was a super shot on No. 10 turned out to be a bad one. I was trying to cut the ball left to right and cut it too much. I made six there where a person should get a birdie."

Astleford's 12-foot putt for the bogey on the final hole edged Bridge and Brunzell out of a tie for medalist honors, but it wasn't the first time Bridge has been edged by the Omaha champion, having lost twice in playoffs to Astleford at a Yankton, S.D. tournament.

Bridge, a veteran golfer who played in his first state tournament 20 years ago, was happy with his 71, but figured 70 would have been more pleasing and he expressed that attitude before Astleford finished at 70.

The Norfolk golfer missed three putts of four feet on the back nine and a six-footer on the front side that would have saved pars. Had just one of the four fallen, he'd have shared medalist honors.

"I got off to a good start with a good chip shot on the first hole," Bridge noted, speaking of an approach shot that left him with only a two-foot putt for his birdie.

"I was hitting the ball better today," he continued, "and my long irons were good into the greens."

One of the highlights of Bridge's career was playing as a member of the winning pro-am team in the Western Open at the Tam O'Shanter Country Club in Chicago in 1965 with Dutch Harrison as the pro on his team.

Another incident in Bridge's golf life, which many people likely would prefer not to discuss if it had happened to them, was a fade he staged in the 1957 Men's State Tournament at Omaha's Happy Hollow Country Club.

"I lost a five-stroke lead on the final 18 holes bogeying seven of the last nine holes," he recalls. The bogey binge allowed Lyle Teel, now pro at the Kearney Country Club, and Dick Spangler Jr., of Lincoln to tie for the lead. Spangler won an 18-hole playoff from Teel the following day.

Author Says Killers Halted By Confession

Washington (UPI)—Author Truman Capote told Congress Thursday that the two mass murderers in his book "In Cold Blood" never would have been convicted without a confession and would have gone on to kill again.

Capote, whose chilling account of the slaughter of the Herbert Clutter family in Holcomb, Kan., has become a best seller, testified before a Senate judiciary subcommittee. It is studying recent Supreme Court decisions laying down procedures under which police may extract confessions from suspects.

Capote opposed the rulings, which held that a suspect has the right to have an attorney present at all stages of a criminal investigation, particularly immediately after an arrest.

MORRISON: CURTIS' INTEREST IN AGRICULTURE STRANGE

Gov. Frank Morrison said Thursday "it seems strange to me" that Republican Sen. Carl T. Curtis "in this election year has suddenly become so concerned about agriculture."

Morrison, the Democratic candidate for the Curtis Senate seat, told a news conference that his political rival is not a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, has never authored farm legislation in his years in Washington, and has opposed and voted against "many important bills."

During Curtis' 28 years as a House and Senate member there has been "unbelievable neglect of export opportunities for Nebraska agricul-

Ex-Secretary Back

Vientiane, Laos (AP)—Boutheng Voravong, former secretary of state for sports, youth and fine arts who has been under house arrest in Luang Prabang since the abortive coup of February 1965, returned to Vientiane.

oratory scientists said Thursday after deciding there was little hope the 620-pound craft's ailing battery could survive the minus-500-degree, two-week-long lunar night that began July 13.

Surveyor 1 had televised 11,250 pictures since its historic soft-landing June 1, closeups which proved the lunar surface was safe for Apollo astronauts expected to land there by 1970.

"We will not try to take any more pictures with Surveyor 1," a spokesman said.

"Sometime after lunar sunrise the end of this month we will see if its receiver is still operating. If it is, we will take whatever steps are necessary to make sure that Surveyor 1 does not interfere with the mission of Surveyor 2."

Surveyor has no switch to turn off its receiver. If it is still functional, it could receive signals intended for Surveyor 2, an identical craft scheduled to be launched in September, and start transmitting signals that would garble pictures from Surveyor 2.

The spokesman said that if Surveyor responds to further signals it probably will be directed to turn its antenna away from earth, thus in effect silencing it forever.

Sen. Payne Raps Actions Of Capitol Building Group

Papillon (AP)—State Sen. Dale Payne of Papillon said Thursday the Capitol Building Commission is not following the Legislature's instructions in planning a new state office building.

He said legislators specifically directed the commission to build on state-owned land adjacent to the Statehouse.

Payne commented after the commission, headed by Gov. Frank Morrison, decided to delay for two months a building location determination.

"We don't expect the commission to make any dealings with the City of Lincoln," Payne said. "Let Lincoln construct its own building. We'll build ours as we intended when we wrote the law." Lincoln proposed a building north of the Capitol on 15th. The city would own the land and the first five stories, which would be used for parking. The state would construct additional floors for offices.

Bomb Finder Honored

Aguilas, Spain (AP)—Francisco Simo Orts, the Spanish Fisherman bemedaled by the United States for pinpointing the undersea location of the H-bomb retrieved laboriously following a B52 bomber crash last January, has also received the Spanish Cross for Naval Merit from Rear Adm. Luis Cebrero Blanco.

However, law requires that the land must be owned by the state.

Mayor Dean H. Petersen of Lincoln said the city proposal would save the state as much as $1.5 million.

The commission delayed its action on a site to give Lincoln more time to plan the structure.

Planning Priorities Set On 5 Watershed Districts

By United Press International

The State Soil and Water Conservation Commission Thursday set planning priorities for five proposed watershed development projects.

The priorities will put the proposals on a list for planning assistance from the state commission. Ahead of the five are 69 other watershed projects which have been proposed.

Those given the 70 through 74 slots on the list were, by name, county location and acreage:

Rock—Saunders and Lancaster, 83,850 Swan—Saline and Jefferson, 156,160; Wolfe Wildcat—Gage and Pawnee, 57,710; Lime Creek—Cedar and Dixon, 44,700; and Lower Little Nemaha—Otoe, Johnson, Nemaha and Richardson, 138,260

Waiting List

Placed on the waiting list for a priority at Thursday's meeting was the proposed Stevens Creek-Callahan Watershed for Lancaster, Cass and Saunders Counties. It would cover 135,040 acres.

Fred Retzlaff of Walton presented the proposal. He told the commission the area the shed would serve has experienced widespread flood damage in recent years.

Walter Hoppe, deputy Lancaster County engineer, testified for the proposal and asked the commission to enter a quick priority for it. The shed would be part of the overall Salt Creek watershed district which exists in the counties.

Deserve Expansion

Hal Schroeder, general manager of the Salt Creek district, said the taxpayers in the area are now paying .75 of a mill for the district and deserve to have it expanded to include the new proposal.

In other action the commission:

—Went on record in favor of the People Creek basin program proposed by the Army Corps of Engineers and the Federal Soil Conservation Service.

The project envisions the construction of 21 flood control reservoirs and 33 grade stabilization structures for water control over a 250,000 acre area in Washington, Sary and Douglas Counties.

—Agreed to support the proposed investigation project on part of the Walnut basin in Saunders County that would use Platte River water for irrigation in the Todd Valley.

New Bans Put On Political Activity By State Employees

A revised handbook of administrative rules and regulations put out by the governor's office has laid down some new prohibitions against political activity by state employees.

An earlier version ruled out the holding of political office for compensation except for membership on local school boards. It contained the standard injunction against political activities by persons paid in whole or in part by federal funds, and said no worker could hold a second job which conflicted with his state job.

The new and expanded rules say not state worker can be a candidate for a political office or seek or accept nomination, election or appointment as an officer of a political party, club or organization.

Moreover, "No employee shall use his official authority or influence to further the cause of any political party or candidate for nomination or election to public office."

State employees cannot be fired for paying political contributions or assessments, but neither are they prevented from making voluntary contributions.

Employees are advised they have a right to vote as they choose and to express opinions on political subjects and candidates, and may hold "strictly local non-partisan offices" except those interfering with state duties.

The new rules went into effect July 1.

The rules apply to code department agencies which come under the governor's supervision, such as the departments of institutions, banking, insurance, roads, agriculture, motor vehicles and welfare.

We not only put in a lot of what makes the bug so nice. We also put in a lot of what makes the bug so nice for so long.

Sweet.

The Volkswagen Fastback is made the same way Volkswagens were made ten years ago. Since most of them are still around, that couldn't be too bad.

It goes through 3,120 inspections. Nothing gets into the car that isn't perfect.

For a scratch on the door that only a trained VW inspector could ever see, we'll scratch the whole door.

We even take a lot of pains with what you can see. The paint job involves 2 chemical baths, 3 sandings (one by hand) and 4 coats of paint.

So first be sure you like the Fastback.

Then be sure to pick a color you can live with a long time.

Economic Effect Of Irrigation Eyed

A statewide study to measure the impact of irrigated agriculture on Nebraska's economy is underway at the University of Nebraska Bureau of Business Research.

The study, the first of its kind for the state, is directed by Dr. Theodore W. Roesler, associate professor of economics and statistics.

The Nebraska Inter-Industry Study, made possible by a $50,000 grant from the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, is being conducted to determine relationships among Nebraska industries with respect to sales and purchases. These relationships will be revealed by way of input-output tables.

Upon completion of the research, the direct and indirect impact of irrigated agriculture on the state's economy will be estimated in tabular form. The study will make it possible to trace the effects of irrigation on the various sectors of Nebraska's economy, including agriculture, manufacturing, retail trade, wholesale trade, and insurance.

The findings also will make it possible for a firm to compare its position in the economy with that of the state industry of which it is a part and will be useful for forecasting the effects of a change in demand upon the state's economy and its industries.

Dr. Roesler will direct a survey of most major and many small manufacturers in the state. He explained that the year 1963 since much census information is available for that year.

The research is also expected to be of value to industrial development organizations since studies of this type provide clues as to what types of industry might be best introduced in Nebraska, Dr. Roesler said.

Freckle weather around the West Coast now. That's good. Paris reports that for girls freckles are a big thing again. Paris chicks are having themselves freckled at beauty parlors.

Lasts two days. If you don't wash too often.

It must be good weather. Crime seems to be down. The village banker looked out the window of the village jug and gave me a sunny smile.

The world's leading weather forecasters met in Geneva. They analyzed a million statistics and concluded this is what weather does to you:

In a sudden thunderstorm, traffic accidents go up 70%.

Births rise 11%; deaths go up 20%; work accidents up 20%. Even miners, far underground from the thunderclaps, have 12% more accidents.

Housewives break more dishes.

A curious sink manufacturer sent questions to 600 housewives. Young mothers, he found, break more dishes than the rest. About nine dishes a year.

Grandmas break the fewest. If you're washing dishes, the chances are 7 in 10 that breakage will happen when you're drying them. So easy with that towel, mother.

A cheery note (it must be the weather): The Germans are methodical people. They have figured a wife's worth. Before you throw away your wife and buy a dishwasher, consider this.

The housewife averages 400 hours at the sink each year. She washes 7,200 plates and saucers. (So you crab because she breaks nine?)

If she piled all these on top of each other, it would be as high as the Eiffel Tower. And quite a feat for the housewife, too.

During 25 years of marriage, she walks 14,000 miles just shopping.

Bless us if one of those old boys from Lubbock, Texas, didn't find a way to cure warts on them old steers. He fed them garlic.

Of course, the cows couldn't bear to be around the steers. But it surely did cure their warts.

If any of you old boys want to cure your warts, that's the way to do it. Don't hurry back now, hear?

It is summer on Mackinac Island. Straits of Mackinac, Michigan.

On this historic island, no automobiles are allowed. So the local bank thought up a great idea. They have a deposit window where you can come in and do business on horseback.

The beauty part about this is the horse gets two lumps of sugar. A finder's fee.

Americans on the summer road will eat 97 pounds of beef this year. And if they stop at drive-ins, chances are 7 in 10 they will order hamburger.

American beef raisers say this is something of a record. But in jolly England, records are set by eaters of jellied eels — considered a delicacy by — well, jellied eel eaters. I suppose.

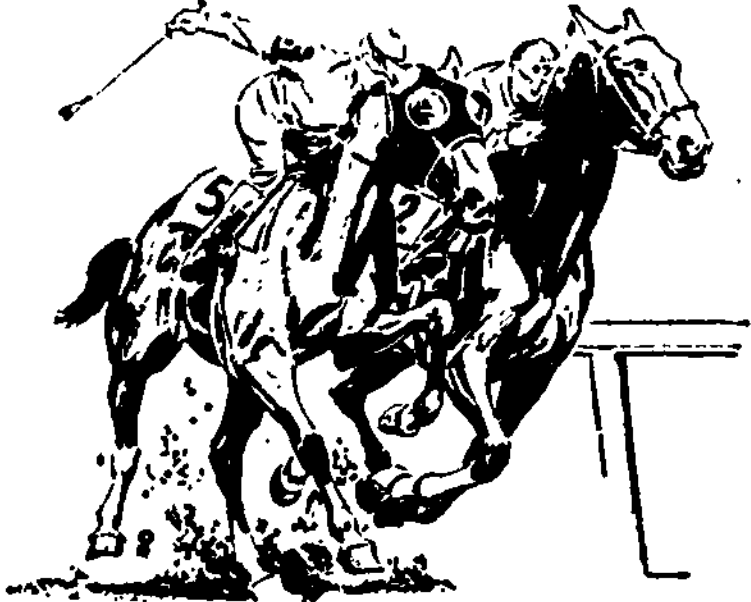

Anyway, the current champ is B. Williams who downed 32 bowls of eels in 45 minutes. A lot of eels. And a lot of Williams who weighs in at 238 pounds.

Summer is honey season around our home, sweet home. To be sure we're on the right track, I looked into money. We're right, all right.

Julius Caesar was wild for honey. Aristotle spoke well of it. The Mount Everest expedition stoked up on it for the final ascent. Americans eat 275 million pounds of it each year. So it must be good for you.
